DEDICATE FISH HATCHERY

Address

"I feel like a modern Rip Van Winkle, you might say, because this project has assumed a mushroom growth since purchase of this site exactly six months ago," declared State Director of Agriculture Charles V. Truax in dedicating the new, state-owned Xenia Fish Hatchery, the second largest in the state in respect to the number of pools, on the Springfield Pike, one mile north of the city, Monday afternoon.

"I too, like old Rip Van Winkle, have wanted to rub my eyes in amazement. Never before has such a project been completed in such a short space of time. It has been accomplished through co-operation and is a splendid exemplification of that spirit of co-ordination that when applied to the fullest extent can accomplish great things. You people are to be congratulated on this hatchery."

Mr. Truax declared that there is only one larger hatchery in the state in respect to the number of pools—the one at Bucyrus having eight pools while the Xenia hatchery consists of six large beds, fed by springs, and situated in an ideal natural setting.

"This site," the state director asserted, "is one of the most available in the entire state. My judgment is that we have never started in to construct a hatchery with such a fine location and natural water supply as this one."

Speaking on the subject of "Conservation," Director Truax urged conservation, not only of fish and game, but of "our youth, our boys and girls, of the fertility of the soil and the welfare of the tillers of the soil."

Reviewing the work that has been accomplished by the state department of agriculture during the seven years he has been its director, Mr. Truax praised Representative R. D. Williamson, of Greene County, member of the state board of agriculture, for his co-operation in the work.

Declaring that the whole purpose of conservation is primarily the conservation of the food supply, he pointed out that farms are "something more than granaries from which cities are to be fed, but are the bulwarks of the nation."

CURTIS REFUSES TO SPEAK IN ALBANY

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Senator Charles Curtis, Republican vice-presidential nominee, keeping an engagement made by the eastern speakers bureau over his own protest will spend seven hours today in Albany, the official residence of his arch political enemy, Governor Alfred E. Smith.

He persistently has refused, however, to make a public address there. The most he has consented to do is address Republican workers at a noon luncheon and appear at the political rally where he was originally scheduled to make the principal speech.

It is against his code of political ethics, he has explained to invade the home city of an opponent for office. Especially when his opponent returns the courtesy.

Curtis will leave Albany today at 4 p. m. to be in Pittsfield, Mass., at 5:30 p. m. for a night's speech. Tomorrow he will return to Rochester for his last campaign appearance in New York.

BLAST KILLS SIX MINERS

DYNAMITE EXPLOSION TRAPS MEN IN WEST VIRGINIA SHAFT.

State Officials Probing Cause; Improper Handling
Of Explosive Is Blamed; Recover Bodies Of Victims.

BECKLEY, West Va., Oct. 23.—State mine officials arrived here early today to investigate the death of six miners who were killed in a dynamite explosion in the McAlpin Coal Company's mine at McAlpin near here.

Robert Lilly, state mine inspector, said he believed the blast occurred when a miner fired ten sticks of dynamite without properly tamping the explosive.

Sixty miners were employed in the immediate vicinity of the chamber but none of them was injured.

A seventh miner, who was caught in a small gas pocket, was brought to the surface in an unconscious condition, physicians said he would recover.

The mine was not seriously damaged although the chamber in which the explosion occurred was wrecked.

The bodies were brought to the surface shortly after the blast. Those killed were:

FIVE PERISH IN HOTEL FIRE

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Five men were burned to death and six injured, one seriously, when fire early today gutted the Eagle Hotel, a small downtown hostelry here. Authorities said the fire probably was caused by a cigarette thrown on a wooden stairway.

REPORTS OF LIQUOR CLEARANCES FAIL TO HALT SMUGGLING

Rum-Runners Start Before
Information Is Received

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Efforts to end liquor smuggling from Canada by interchange of custom information between the two governments have failed, Prohibition Commissioner Doran said today.

He has notified Canadian authorities that daily reports on liquor clearances for the United States will not be needed by the treasury hereafter. He asked the Canadian government to make weekly reports, however, for his statistical bureau.

"The Canadian customs department made daily reports on all liquor shipments legally declared for export to the United States but when these were received by our forces each evening, the illicit cargoes had already been smuggled in," Doran said.

"It only takes rum runners about fifteen minutes to dart across the lakes from Canada to the United States, and they took pains to get going before we were notified they were heading for the border."

Doran said liquor smugglers were making a joke of the clearance declaration statute in Canada, and often they gave names of prominent Americans. One rum runner calls himself Lincoln C. Andrews—former assistant secretary of treasury in charge of prohibition enforcement—whenever he exports whiskey to the United States.

"There has been a shake-up in the customs border patrol along the Canadian boundary and we expect to obtain better enforcement results in that section from now on," Doran said.

FLEA IN ABATEMENT DISMISSED; COURT UPHOLDS DEMURRER

Hibbert Trial To Start
Wednesday; Plea
Changed

A demurrer to a plea in abatement to an indictment returned against James T. Hibbert, proprietor of the Bijou Theater, charging him with exhibiting motion pictures on Sunday in violation of the Sunday closing law, was sustained by Common Pleas Judge R. L. Gowdy Monday afternoon.

A plea of not guilty to the indictment, which had been withdrawn by Attorney F. L. Johnson, co-defense counsel, was re-entered and the case will be tried before a jury Wednesday as originally planned.

A similar procedure is to be followed in the case of Henry L. Binder, proprietor of the Orpheum Theater, who will be given a jury trial Thursday on an identical indictment.

The plea in abatement held that it was the duty of Mayor John W. Prugh to hear the cases against the two theater owners and that he had no authority to bind them over to the grand jury without noting in his records that it would be of public interest to do so.

It was also set forth that at the time the indictment was returned against Hibbert, five cigar stores and pool rooms and nearly twenty groceries and a swimming pool were operated on Sunday, employing common labor, also in violation of the Sunday closing law. The plea charged the theater owners were being discriminated against. The demurrer was filed by Prosecutor J. C. Marshall and the case argued by counsel Monday.

ZEPPELIN VISITORS RETURN EAST AFTER CHICAGO WELCOME

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Dr. Hugo Eckener and his Zeppelin crew today were speeding eastward after a twenty-four-hour welcome in Chicago.

Cheered by 2,000 persons at a banquet, the climax of Chicago's hospitality, the Germans boarded the Gotham limited last night for New York. Later this week, probably Friday, they again will visit the middle west, this time in the dirigible that carried them across the Atlantic from Germany to Lakehurst, N. J.

"The enthusiasm of our reception in Chicago was 300 per cent," said the German aviator.

Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the United States navy bureau of aeronautics, chief speaker at the banquet, pledged that this country would keep abreast of the rest of the world in the air. He also described the navy's plans for two giant Zeppelins each capable

SMITH PREPARES TO MAKE AN INTENSIVE DRIVE ON SEABOARD

Believes Result Is Hanging On Votes Of Eastern States.

ALBANY, N. Y., Oct. 23.—With two weeks to go before the votes are cast, Gov. Alfred E. Smith enjoyed today his last day of ease, putting around with "rare fowl and animals in his executive mansion menagerie and finishing work from his Boston speech.

From tomorrow at 10 a. m. when his train pulls out for Boston until the polls are closed two weeks from tonight, the Democratic presidential nominee will be pushing the most intensive campaign of his twenty year career—"the battle of the Atlantic seaboard."

The division of the 138 electoral votes in these eight vital states from Maryland to Massachusetts, probably will tell the tale of the election. With those states and even with a substantial majority of them, Smith believes he can win. Without them his cause is lost. That is why he intends to spend every precious moment of the final drive speaking and touring through Springfield, Worcester, Boston, Providence, Hartford, Philadelphia, Newark, Trenton, Baltimore, Wilmington, Brooklyn, and New York City.

His plans have been officially announced only as far as Boston where he will parade Wednesday afternoon and speak that night, but a definite schedule for the other cities is expected shortly.

Concentration of the final drive in the east was Smith's own strategy. Next week his Republican opponent Herbert Hoover will be moving toward the Pacific coast to cast his vote. Senator Curtis, Republican vice-presidential candidate who is here today, also will be going west. The east will be left for Smith to play with.

VET IS SUICIDE

MANFIELD, O., Oct. 23.—Ill health was assigned today as the motive for the suicide of Wilbur Lenly, 34, a world war veteran, who shot and killed himself last night at the home of his father-in-law, George Berry. Members of the Berry family were absent at the time.

Lenly used a shot gun, the trigger of which he pulled with a string, according to the coroner.

BISHOP, RABBI, AGNOSTIC DEFEND FAITHS

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—A Methodist bishop, an Agnostic and a Jewish rabbi, stood in the pulpit of a synagogue here last night defending their faiths before an audience of 3,000 persons.

Said Bishop Francis J. McConnell of New York:

"The prime object of protestantism is to teach the observance of two commandments, 'Thou shalt love the Lord thy God,' and 'Thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself.' Protestantism really means that every man is the judge of his own religious convictions."

Said Clarence Darrow, Agnostic:

"If there is anything anywhere that could be called God, I believe that he started a great machine going and left it to take care of itself."

Said Rabbi Louis L. Mann:

"Judaism is not theology. It is a way of life. I am a Jew because my intellectual and spiritual quest was crowned with conviction."

The Rev. Frederick Siedenherg of Loyola University, who to have presented the Roman Catholic view of religion, but withdrew at the request of Cardinal Mundelein.

BIG VOTE EXPECTED AS INTEREST SEEMS HIGH FOR ELECTION

Record Registration Indicates Heavy Balloting.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Politicians of both parties are looking forward to a record-breaking vote in the presidential election.

Figures so far known indicate heavy registration practically everywhere with women voters preparing to exercise their voting right more extensively than ever before.

Both camps are striving hard to "get out the vote," and the indications today are that, while there will still be an army of stay-at-homes, untold thousands will seek out the polls voluntarily on Nov. 6 out of sheer interest in the contest.

From virtually every corner of the land come reports that registration is unparalleled this year. Many experts look for a total vote of from 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 compared with a total 1924 vote of between 29,000,000 and 30,000,000.

New York City offers a striking illustration of the interest in this battle between Herbert Hoover and Gov. Smith has developed.

The registration there is 2,023,654 or about 500,000 above the 1924 vote. Other New York state cities show an increase. Chicago with a 1,500,000 registration is about one third above the total number voting in 1924. For Illinois as a whole there are estimates of registration running 3,000,000 or more, a one fifth increase, or greater, over 1924 vote.

New York state will probably show a 20 to 30 per cent increase over 1924.

These are merely samples of what is happening in many quarters of the land. Even in the south where hitherto practically everybody voted Democratic as a matter of course and then chiefly in the primaries, registration indicates a hitherto unequalled interest.

There are about 58,000,000 persons eligible to vote in the coming election, and of this number about 28,500,000 are women.

POLITICS ON THE RADIO

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Lady Nancy Astor, Senator McNary, joint author of the McNary-Haugen bill, and Senator Carter Glass are the outstanding speakers on tonight's political radio programs.

Lady Astor will make the only radio speech of her present visit to her native land in the voters' service program over the NBC net. Her address will be strictly non-partisan. It is Lady Astor's intention to point out the privileges and responsibilities of voting.

A network of twenty-one stations will broadcast the program, including WEA and WSAI.

McNary will speak on a Republican national committee program from 6:30 to 7 C. S. T. over a net work of thirteen stations, extending from Chicago to Denver. While his subject has not been announced, it is expected that he will discuss the Hoover agricultural relief plan.

The Richmond speech of Senator Glass will be broadcast from 9:15 to 10:15 p. m., Eastern time, over the Columbia Broadcasting system. The broadcast will be sponsored by the Democratic national committee.

EVERYTHING SET TO CALL MARS

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Dr. Abraham Wallace, west end physician who has assumed the role of Dr. Mansfield Robinson's scientific advisor, told the United Press today that the attempt to communicate with Mars by radio might "create the greatest scientific sensation of the ages."

"I am certain that regular communication between Mars and the earth is bound to come," said Wallace.

Robinson will send two messages over the powerful radio station at Rugby tomorrow and then wait half an hour for a reply which he expects to get in eight minutes. The messages, written in code, will say "God is love" and "love to Mars."

Dr. Wallace insisted that the experiment should be considered reverently.

INVADES HOME CITY OF OPPONENT WITH DIRECT ONSLAUGHT

Calls Democratic Plan
"State Socialism" In
Talk

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Herbert Hoover had set the keynote for the wind-up of his presidential campaign today by branding as "state socialism" the prohibition, farm relief and waterpower proposals of his Democratic opponent, Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

He chose Smith's home city as the place and a huge crowd in Madison Square Garden as the audience before which to attack the Democratic candidate's program last night in the most direct and outspoken fashion of his campaign, but without mentioning Smith.

Hoover charged the Democrats with abandoning "the tenets of their own party" in this campaign. They have revived, he declared, "a series of proposals which if adopted, would be a long step toward the abandonment of our American system and a surrender to the destructive operation of governmental conduct of commercial business."

Hoover's bold attack upon Smith's prohibition proposal in this state which has gone on record for a change in the prohibition laws was unexpected and dramatic.

"Because the country is faced with difficulty and doubt over certain national problems—that is, prohibition, farm relief and electrical power—our opponents propose that we must thrust government a long way into the businesses which give rise to these problems," Hoover said.

"In effect, they abandon the tenets of their own party and turn to state socialism as a solution of the difficulties presented by all three."

"It is proposed that we shall change from prohibition to the state purchase and sale of liquor. If their agricultural relief program means anything, it means that the government shall directly or indirectly buy and sell at fixed prices of agricultural products. And we are to go into the hydro-electrical power business."

"In other words, we are confronted with a huge program of government in business."

Hoover discussed prohibition no further than to denounce Smith's proposal. Though Vice-President Dawes, who preceded him, gave some attention to it, declaring it is not an issue with the average citizen, though it will affect votes of many who feel strongly one way or the other. Continuance of prosperity, the vice-president declared in this, his first campaign speech, is the dominant issue.

Hoover denounced government operation of commercial business in which he said he had experience.

"It is a false liberalism that interprets itself into the government."

DANIELS DEMANDS THAT WORK RESIGN

WAYNESVILLE, N. C., Oct. 23.—The Republican party must either demand the resignation of Dr. Hubert Work or accept the responsibility of his renewal of the Salt Creek oil lease to the Dan-Sinclair interests, Josephus Daniels, former secretary of the navy, said in an address here last night.

Daniels said Herbert Hoover should demand Work's resignation as chairman of the Republican National committee.

He attacked the renewal of the Salt Creek lease by Work, then Secretary of the Interior, and criticized Work's successor, Roy O. West.

"The latest exposure of secret leasing of oil lands is still, in fact, Albert B. Fall is still, in fact, Secretary of the Interior and that the Republican National committee must have a new chairman if that party expects to retain the confidence of even its most loyal standard-bearers," Daniels said.

ZEPPELIN VISITORS RETURN EAST AFTER CHICAGO WELCOME

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Dr. Hugo Eckener and his Zeppelin crew today were speeding eastward after a twenty-four-hour welcome in Chicago.

Cheered by 2,000 persons at a banquet, the climax of Chicago's hospitality, the Germans boarded the Gotham limited last night for New York. Later this week, probably Friday, they again will visit the middle west, this time in the dirigible that carried them across the Atlantic from Germany to Lakehurst, N. J.

"The enthusiasm of our reception in Chicago was 300 per cent," said the German aviator.

Admiral William A. Moffett, chief of the United States navy bureau of aeronautics, chief speaker at the banquet, pledged that this country would keep abreast of the rest of the world in the air. He also described the navy's plans for two giant Zeppelins each capable of carrying 100 passengers and five airplanes.

Dr. Eckener said that passengers would be accepted for the return flight to Germany. The fare will be $3,000, the same price charged on the trip from Germany.

BIG VOTE EXPECTED AS INTEREST SEEMS HIGH FOR ELECTION

Record Registration Indicates Heavy Balloting.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Politicians of both parties are looking forward to a record-breaking vote in the presidential election.

Figures so far known indicate heavy registration practically everywhere with women voters preparing to exercise their voting right more extensively than ever before.

Both camps are striving hard to "get out the vote," and the indications today are that, while there will still be an army of stay-at-homes, untold thousands will seek out the polls voluntarily on Nov. 6 out of sheer interest in the contest.

From virtually every corner of the land come reports that registration is unparalleled this year. Many experts look for a total vote of from 35,000,000 to 40,000,000 compared with a total 1924 vote of between 29,000,000 and 30,000,000.

New York City offers a striking illustration of the interest this year. The registration there is 2,023,654 or about 500,000 above the 1924 vote. Other New York state cities show an increase. Chicago with a 1,500,000 registration is about one third above the total number voting in 1924. For Illinois as a whole there are estimates of registration running 3,000,000 or more, a one fifth increase, or greater, over 1924 vote.

New York state will probably show a 20 to 30 per cent increase over 1924.

These are merely samples of what is happening in many quarters of the land. Even in the south where hitherto practically every body voted Democratic as a matter of course and then chiefly in the primaries, registration indicates a hitherto unequalled interest.

There are about 58,000,000 persons eligible to vote in the coming election, and of this number about 28,500,000 are women.

POLITICS ON THE RADIO

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Lady Nancy Astor, Senator McNary, joint author of the McNary-Haugen bill, and Senator Carter Glass are the outstanding speakers on tonight's political radio programs.

Lady Astor will make the only radio speech of her present visit to her native land in the voters' service program over the NBC red network arranged by the National League of Women Voters. Her address will be strictly non-partisan, to point out the privileges and responsibilities of voting.

A network of twenty-one stations will broadcast the program, including WJAF and WSAI.

McNary will speak on a Republican national committee program from 6:30 to 7 C. S. T., over a network of thirteen stations extending from Chicago to Denver. While his subject has not been announced, it is expected that he will discuss the Hoover agricultural relief plan.

The Richmond speech of Senator Glass will be broadcast from 9:15 to 10:15 p. m., Eastern time, over the Columbia Broadcasting system. The broadcast will be sponsored by the Democratic national committee.

VET IS SUICIDE

MANFIELD, O., Oct. 23.—Ill health was assigned today as the motive for the suicide of Wilbur Lemly, 34, a world war veteran, who shot and killed himself last night at the home of his father-in-law, George Berry.

Members of the Berry family were absent at the time.

Lemly used a shot gun, the trigger of which he pulled with a string, according to the coroner.

DRY RAIDER'S VICTIM AT TRIAL

"Here's where the bullet hit me," says Betty Heywood, of Elyria, O., in court there, where Louis Cicco, former Lorain dry officer, has been on trial charged with shooting with intent to wound. The bullet entered the base of Betty's brain when officers fired on a car in which she was riding with members of her family, and which failed to stop at the raiders' command.

HOOVER RETURNS HAPPY AFTER HUGE RECEPTION IN NEW YORK

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Herbert Hoover returned home today from New York, with his eastern campaign ended to begin preparations for his journey to California to vote beginning next week.

The special campaign train arrived here at 8:30 a. m. The Republican candidate will begin today to map out his final weeks program on the western tour and to write the speech he will make at St. Louis.

Hoover expects to leave here for California a week from today, stopping in St. Louis probably Nov. 2.

His ears still were ringing from the noisy, enthusiastic acclaim of 20,000 persons who packed into Madison Square Garden last night to hear him tear into Governor Alfred E. Smith's prohibition modification, farm relief and water-power program in Smith's home city. It was the most vigorous and direct attack of his campaign.

It was truly the highlight of his campaign for the presidency. It was his most enthusiastic reception. For nearly half an hour the crowd shouted its welcome, waving small American flags ecstatically and creating a scene similar to that at Kansas City when Hoover was nominated.

When the Republican candidate appeared on the platform, the first demonstration began. A din of shouting continued for ten minutes. Finally, the crowd waited patiently through the speech of Vice-President Dawes, and then opened its lungs and waved its flags when Hoover was introduced for his speech, keeping it up the second time for thirteen minutes.

The Republican candidate carried away from New York renewed hope of winning its forty-five electoral votes. He received optimistic reports from state leaders. There was the taste of victory in his two predictions during the day that he would be elected November 6. He picked Smith's home town for his first public expression of confidence, and the psychological time just two weeks before election.

INVADES HOME CITY OF OPPONENT WITH DIRECT ONSLAUGHT

Calls Democratic Plan
"State Socialism" In
Talk

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Herbert Hoover had set the keynote for the wind-up of his presidential campaign today by branding as "state socialism" the prohibition, farm relief and waterpower proposals of his Democratic opponent, Gov. Alfred E. Smith.

He chose Smith's home city as the place and a huge crowd in Madison Square Garden as the audience before which to attack the Democratic candidate's program last night in the most direct and outspoken fashion of his campaign, but without mentioning Smith.

Hoover charged the Democrats with abandoning "the tents of their own party" in this campaign.

"They have revived, he declared, 'a series of proposals which if adopted, would be a long step toward the abandonment of our American system and a surrender to the destructive operation of governmental conduct of commercial business.'"

Hoover's bold attack upon Smith's prohibition proposal in this state which has gone on record for a change in the prohibition laws was unexpected and dramatic.

"Because the country is faced with difficulty and doubt over certain national problems—that is, prohibition, farm relief and waterpower—our opponents propose that we must trust government a long way into the businesses which give rise to these problems," Hoover said.

"In effect, they abandon the tents of their own party and turn to state socialism as a solution of the difficulties presented by all three. It is proposed that we shall change from prohibition to the state purchase and sale of liquor. If their agricultural relief program means anything, it means that the government shall directly or indirectly buy and sell and fix prices of agricultural products. And we are to go into the hydro-electrical power business."

"In other words, we are confronted with a huge program of government in business."

Hoover discussed prohibition no further than to denounce Smith's proposal, though Vice-President Dawes, who preceded him, gave more attention to it, declaring it is not an issue with the average citizen, though it will affect voters of many who feel strongly one way or the other. Continuation of prosperity, the vice-president declared in this, his first campaign speech, is the dominant issue.

Hoover then denounced government operation of commercial business in which he said he had experience.

"It is a false liberalism that interprets itself into the government"

DANIELS DEMANDS THAT WORK RESIGN

WAYNESVILLE, N. C., Oct. 23.—The Republican party must either demand the resignation of Dr. Hubert Work or accept the responsibility of his renewal of the Salt Creek oil lease to the Sinclair interests. Joseph Daniels, former secretary of the party, said in an address here last night.

Daniels said Herbert Hoover should demand Work's resignation as chairman of the Republican National committee.

He attacked the renewal of the Salt Creek lease by Work, then Secretary of the Interior, and criticized Work's successor, Roy O. West.

"The latest exposure of secret leasing of oil lands shows that Albert B. Fall is still, in fact, Secretary of the Interior and that the Republican National committee must have a new chairman if that party expects to retain the confidence of even its most loyal standard-bearers," Daniels said.

NICARAGUA POLICY SUBJECT OF ATTACK

LINCOLN, Neb., Oct. 23.—After a speech here last night in which he attacked the administration's Nicaragua policies, Senator Joseph T. Robinson, Democratic nominee for vice president, leaves today for Sioux City, Ia., where he will talk tonight.

Saturday night Robinson invades the heart of the corn belt, Des Moines, in an effort to win farm votes for the Democratic ticket.

THREE DRIVERS ARE HELD FOR VIOLATING AUTO TRAFFIC LAWS

Three autoists were arrested over the week-end by O. H. Cornwell, county road patrolman, for various alleged traffic violations.

Floyd McIntosh, California St., arrested on the Columbus Pike Saturday night, was charged with reckless driving and disrespect to an officer. He did not appear personally in Probate Court Monday but through Delver Belden, auto club secretary, pleaded not guilty to both charges. His hearing is set for 10 a. m. Saturday.

Cornwell reported McIntosh deliberately tried to wreck his motorcycle. He said the motorist used abusive language after being arrested and that while he was trailing him back to Xenia on his motorcycle, the driver suddenly put on the brakes, almost causing a rear-end collision.

William Scott, colored, Columbus Pike, was scheduled to be arraigned in Probate Court Tuesday on charges of operating an auto without a tail light and for driving a car equipped with wrong license tags.

John Baber, colored, near Wilberforce, also arrested Saturday night on a charge of driving an auto bearing improper license plates, was to be arraigned in Probate Court Tuesday.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

EARLY AND LATE—With my soul have I desired thee in the night; yea, with my spirit within me will I seek thee early, O God.—Isa. 26:9.

OHIO'S GREAT NEED

Business leaders of the nation are appealing to the voters of the country to lay aside personal feelings and use care in examining the experience and qualifications of the candidates for the Presidency, as stockholders or directors of a concern would use in selection of a manager.

The same care and caution should be exercised in choosing a man for Governor of Ohio. This is a strong Republican state but has been electing Democratic Governors for many years. These repeated Democratic victories in the state have been due to Republican voters yielding party principles to personal prejudice. There is no reason why Republican voters should not concentrate upon Myers Y. Cooper this year and put him over with a big vote. He is a man of moral character and business capacity, measuring up in practical business experience to the responsibilities of the office.

Ohio is a big business concern and the proper conduct of its affair require a business man. Mr. Cooper has managed his own private affairs so successfully that he is known as one of the outstanding business men of the state. He would apply the same business methods to state affairs, surround himself with able, competent and efficient help and build up an organization that would inure to the benefit of all the people. Ohio Republicans have been generous for years in their support of Democratic candidates for Governor. This year there is every reason why they should vote the Republican party ticket from President down. If Democrats consult their own best interests they will vote the Republican ticket, which would be a manifestation of a spirit of appreciation in a reciprocal way.

In comparing the two men, Myers Y. Cooper, Republican candidate for Governor, and Martin L. Davey, his Democratic opponent, careful consideration should be given Mr. Davey's record in Congress. It shows he missed 527 roll calls and answered but 508, indicating that he was absent and not voting more than half the time he has represented the Fourteenth Congressional District at Washington. What would he do as Governor of Ohio? Past performance is the chief method by which men are judged.

SCIENCE PAYS MILLIONS

Science gives us here in America an increased income of $30,000,000,000 a year, according to an authority writing in Chemical Markets. This writer says it has doubled the productivity of agriculture, and more than quadrupled that of mining. It has created the entire automobile industry in about 30 years.

When funds are asked to promote scientific research, many people may say they are wasted, and yet the scientists are constantly discovering things out of which the people reap profits mounting up into billions. The American people and their government should spend money generously for such investigations.

The American people are urged to hail the dawn of a new day, and they frequently do so when they go to the dances.

REMEMBERING

Just a few old men are left out of hundreds of gay youngsters who made up a certain regiment of volunteer infantry in the Civil War. A few days ago four members met in a reunion. There was talk of disbanding, but the motion lost. The organization goes marching on. The old men of the war, these who are still here, are not forgotten. The greatness of our nation today is the reward of their sacrifice and service in holding it together.

WHY WHISPERS?

There is not the slightest good reason for a "whispering campaign" this year. There is no reason for a whispering campaign any year. Issues should be talked about freely and openly. Candidates should be discussed in full voice. Whether a man's religious belief is an issue or not, there is no reason for whispering about it. If it weighs with you, why be ashamed to admit it? If we think the type of a man's creed is sufficient reason for voting against him we ought at least to have the courage to say so. We ought all to be ashamed to whisper about anything we don't dare give voice to.

WHY THE BATTLE?

One reads that the Ohio Federation of Labor is pledged to help striking miners as the winter approaches. What a sad reflection on the general intellectual level of the times is to be found in the apparent inability of coal miners and coal mine owners to agree on wages and hours that are fair. Does one side desire something that is not fair, or are both sides too unintelligent to see where their real interest and the interest of the public lie? Why this childish persistence in fighting a year-in and year-out battle?

SUFFRAGETTES

The spirit of the militant suffragettes of old seems to go marching on. Women have pretty well won out on their fight for rights—whatever those are—in America and England. They seem to be bent on getting something or other in France. Following the rejection of a suffrage bill in the French senate the women parade with placards.

We will play games with each other instead of settling down and arranging our affairs in a decent, dignified, sensible, grown-up way.

NEW YORK—I've just come down the Hudson once more, viewing the scenery from an observation car. This is one of the sights, of course.

But what interested me most was that men were forbidden to smoke in the observation car, while it contained a charming smoking room for women. The men complained that it wouldn't be so bad if the parlor car ahead had a smoking room for men, but it didn't. They were informed there was a club car at the head of the train for men—the rear was for women.

Considerable of change from the time when Hendrik Hudson, of Holland, explored the river that bears his name, and which he thought was a short passage to India.

I've done some exploring myself today. Looked into a single room in the one of the newer hotels in the Times Square district. It is inadvisably called a room. To turn around, one backs out into the hall.

Again Madison Square Garden, seating 18,000 and built only a few years ago, is too small. The occasion is the Herbert Hoover speech on October 22. Nearly 60,000 applications have been received.

It was ever thus! Those who don't care seem to get plays produced. Those who do, try vainly.

Over in Hoboken, N. J., there's a highbrow theatrical organization composed of such noted New York spirits as Christopher Morley, Harry Wagstaff Gribble, Cleon Throckmorton and Conrad Milliken.

Well, two years ago Throckmorton was handed a play manuscript by somebody in a picture theatre. He didn't look at it till a few weeks ago. Then he went into raptures—as did his fellow directors.

The name on the script was Thomas John Skeeyhill. But no such name could be found in such directories as have been searched. If this finds Skeeyhill, he should communicate with Cleon Throckmorton of the Hoboken Theatre Co.

Greenwich Village isn't so popular these days because of a typhoid fever epidemic—but that doesn't prevent rents and apartment houses from soaring.

Since the Majestic, the Leviathan and other large transatlantic liners sail at midnight now, in order to avoid harbor congestion and also land French passengers at Cherbourg in daylight, the procession of steamers down the harbor is less inspiring. But a big vessel pulling out at night is worth staying up to see.

Hours to avoid New York restaurants: Noon till 2 p. m. West days, Wednesday and Saturday, because of matinees.

People are always attracted by other people. If a bright light in front of a shop window makes human motes look, the crowd thus drawn attracts still others. Half the people who stroll along Broadway at night are there because they know they will see large crowds of other strollers.

Not long ago a Cleveland bank moved into new quarters. Their new lobby is so large that it would do for a skating rink. To many it looked like a terrible waste of space. But this large oasis of space in a congested section soon began to attract people. It was a convenient place to meet for brief business appointments. As people got into the habit of using it for a meeting place, the crowds themselves made it an interesting place to go. You might see almost anybody you knew. In other words, that bank lobby became an important center. As people came more and more to meet there, naturally there was a big increase in deposits and dealing at that bank.

The bank's business grew more than in many years. That big lobby is believed to be part of the answer.

AN IRRITATING REMINDER

A lady ran away from her husband and went to live in a hotel. After several days she went back to him. She said she couldn't stand looking at the sign on the hotel door every time she went out. It troubled her conscience. The sign was: "Think; have you left anything?"

A NATURAL WONDER

Muriel had been to the zoo for the first time, and was giving her grandmother a long account of what she had seen.

"And what animal did you like best, dear?" asked her grandmother when Muriel had finished. "Oh, the elephant!" was the reply. "It was wonderful to see him pick up buns with his vacuum cleaner!"

THE HANDY NEEDLE IN THE POLITICAL HAY STACK

Behind the Scenes in Washington

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Curiously enough, the navy department regards Commander J. M. Kenworthy, formerly of the British fighting fleet, with quite a kindly eye for mentioning war between Uncle Sam and John Bull as a possibility of the next 10 years.

Yet, it is not so curious after all. Professional warriors, both of the land and sea, here, as well as everywhere else, welcome war prophecies—not that they want war, but because such prophecies scare the rest of us, thus inducing us to dig up more money for our professional scrappers, which they like, of course, just as anybody enjoys having plenty of money to spend.

True, Commander Kenworthy meant what he said, not as a threat against us, but as a caution—solemn warning, rather to his own countrymen than to Americans, to watch their step. However, that sort of utterance can be adapted to fit either way.

There will be a fierce argument of the next session of congress between our big and little navy groups. Folk prominent in the former of these two factions think they see how the British er-commander's remarks can be used to help their side a great deal.

Commander Kenworthy, as a seion of the English nobility, might have been expected to be a Conservative, but after the last war, through which he skippered one of King George's destroyers, he turned pretty radical and the Labor party sent him to parliament.

He writes considerably, as a naval expert, too.

His latest book is called "The Freedom of the Seas."

This was the subject he discussed in a recent speech at Birmingham, when and where he referred to the danger of an Anglo-American clash unless Brit-anna modifies her claim to absolute and exclusive "rulership of the waves."

Kenworthy recalls that British interference with American shipping made President Wilson exceedingly sore in the early days of the last war.

He surmises that it might have developed into a red-hot controversy if the Washington chief executive had not presently had his attention distracted from the English navy's blockade methods by the still more violent ones of Germany's U-boats.

Nevertheless, the commander doubts if Americans are any reader today than ever they were to recognize the British title to out-and-out ownership of the oceans—a proposition on which the London admiralty stands as pat at present at it did in 1812.

If this deadlock remains unbroken, Commander Kenworthy says plainly that an Anglo-American war in 1928 can just as reasonably be forecast now as it was possible to forecast the World war in 1904.

In fact, a few pessimists did but generally it was considered forecast the World war in 1904 "unthinkable."

And so it was, agree Commander Kenworthy—precisely as an Anglo-American war is "unthinkable" in 1928.

It is but right to say that, on both sides of the water, Commander Kenworthy is quite widely regarded as an ultra-alarmist.

All the same, his book, "The Freedom of the Seas," is a best-seller in Washington army and navy circles—especially navy circles, the author himself being a navy man.

Also his Birmingham speech is much commented on.

We shall hear a lot about them both when congress meets and the big and little navy debate begins.

Baked Beans Cooked Tomatoes
Cole Slaw
Boston Brown Bread
Fresh Fruit Coffee

This is a Saturday night supper, or dinner, of course. There are innumerable ways of cooking baked beans. My own favorite is with tomato, and I omit the onion. This amount will serve four people.

Today's Recipes.

Boston Baked Beans—Soak a pint of navy beans over night. In the morning, place an onion in the bottom of the bean pot and cover with the beans. Bury half a pound of salt pork in the beans until only the top shows. Mix two tablespoonfuls of molasses, one teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of pepper and half a teaspoonful of mustard with hot water, and add enough hot water to cover. Cook in a very slow oven all day until ready to serve in the evening. Keep plenty of water on the beans and cover the bean pot so they do not dry out. It is the seasoning and the long, slow baking that does the trick.

Boston Brown Bread—One cup rye flour, one cup graham, one cup white flour, two cups molasses, one cup (corn meal), one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup molasses, one and one-half cups milk. Steam three hours.

The rounded toes and out effects which are the present vogue in shoes combine beauty with hygiene. As a rule, they allow room for the toes, fit the arch well, and due to their sandal type, provide the foot with the necessary ventilation. Select your shoes for comfort. If you have a large, rather stout foot, keep away from the dainty looking, fragile slippers which beautifully a slender foot and make a large one ridiculous looking. Don't go in for extremes. A narrow strap is only becoming to a slender foot and a pretty ankle. Should you not have these, the more common sense wide strap and side buckle is the best style for you to choose.

While oxfords are not as a rule flattering they have the advantage of both looking and feeling sensible. If you select becoming stockings and are always careful to see that your oxfords are well shined, neatly laced, with fresh looking strings in them, you can get away with them very nicely.

Dark stockings are much more slenderizing than light ones. However, do not make the mistake of selecting all black ones, for they are at present unusual enough to attract attention. Any of the off-black shades such as gunmetal, dust and turt will be becoming and flattering. Avoid the pinker shades for daytime wear. Only last week I received warning from Paris that the nude stockings will not be in vogue this year.

WHILE LEARNING TO FOCUS, EYES OF BABY MAY CROSS

Answers to Mothers
God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.—Jewish Proverb.

Cross Eyes
"Will you please tell me whether I have any cause for worry? The left eye of my baby girl, four months old, does not seem to be exactly centered. She has a habit of looking at her hands and feet very closely, which makes her eyes cross. Of course, when I see her do this, I stop it. She also turns her head to stare at the bedroom door, which is on her left. We have no weak eyes in the family. Please tell me whether this is serious, and whether it will have to be corrected or whether it will adjust itself."
MRS. J.

I don't think you have any cause for worry, Mrs. J. All babies, while they are learning to focus their eyes, cause consternation to young mothers for fear they are going to develop into Ben Turpins. Your baby looks toward the door because she has learned to expect someone to come through it, or perhaps because it is lighter there babies turn instinctively towards light, just as do plants. However, if her eyes do not adjust themselves soon, see a baby specialist.

This turning or squinting of babies' eyes has been noted for ages. In the old medical records it was written about in the following manner:

Of Goggle Eyes
"...to lay the child so in his cradle, that he may behold direct against the light & not to turn his eyes on either of both sides. If yet he begin to goggle, then set the cradle after such a fourme, that the light may be on the contrary side... so that for desire of light he may direct them to the same part... & remove his eyes from ye evil custome."
This is still good advice.

If you are interested, we have a list of modern books on the subject of the general care and feeding of children. (See directions for obtaining.)
Milk Let (Phlebasia Alba Dolans or Phlebasia Alba Dolans) Phlegmasia alba dolans (from the Greek words meaning white, painful inflammation), commonly called milk or white leg, is an inflammation of the large veins of the leg which sometimes follows childbirth and deep abdominal operations. The leg becomes swollen and whitish. On account of the whiteness, there used to be a superstition that the condition was caused by the "driving in" of the milk; hence the name milk leg. This is not true.

Inflammation of the veins may cause a long clot (thrombus) and if the proper care is not given, a bit of this may break off and form what is known as an embolus, which is carried by the circulation and may lodge in a vital organ, causing serious consequences, even death. For this reason, the patient has to remain very quietly in bed for weeks or months, with the leg elevated a little, and fixed up to prevent the clothes from resting on the foot. A half barrel hoop may be used. The leg is usually bandaged and kept warm, but no massage or rough handling for fear of the possibility of loosening bits of the clot, if one should form. If a clot has formed, sooner or later it will either be dissolved or fibrous tissue will grow through it and it will become a cord of solid tissue; then it is not dangerous.

Sometimes the leg will remain swollen for years, or may swell only when the patient is long on her feet.

Milk leg is not very common, not nearly so common as it used to be before the modern methods of care in childbirth and operations.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Some Cannot Make Friends. What Can They Do About It?

A letter from a high school girl has set me thinking of a problem and I would like my readers' help. Why is it so hard for some people to make friends? Why are they constantly slighted when others, often more shallow and less worth knowing, have plenty of friends? We all have such people in our acquaintance, quiet people sometimes—not always—but people that it is an effort to remember. What can such a person do to make themselves popular? I am afraid generalities will not be much help. The remedy would have to be specific in individual cases. Following is the little girl's letter:

"Dear Mrs. Lee You are getting hundreds of people out of their troubles, so I write to you to help me. My trouble is this: I am in the third year of high school and make friends easily while in school, but after school everybody seems to attend to their own business and I don't know what to do with myself. What do other girls do? Isn't it funny? I am in a class full of girls, but I don't know how to get a chum. Another trouble is, that at one time most of the girls seem to be friendly and at another are mad at me, for what, I don't know. I don't quarrel. I am the quiet kind, but try to speak and be friendly to those girls. Still another thing that troubles me is why the few girls I do go out with once in a while never invite me to their parties. They invite the rest of the girls. How can I get in the gang? I sometimes get almost frantic seeing other groups of girls going together to football games, pep meetings, etc., while I have to sit at home miserable because I haven't got anyone with whom to go. Nobody ever asks me to go with them and I don't know how to ask them.

"MOLLY."

To tell you just what is wrong I would have to know you, dear. It is very likely—and I don't say this merely to comfort you but because it is true—that it is a passing phase of adolescent life. Many young people pass through it, in fact, almost all. Suppose you take inventory. Look yourself over carefully physically. Do you keep yourself as neat and attractive as possible? It is very easy to slump at your age. Are your stockings always fastened up neatly with the seams straight up the back? Hair, nails, etc., all right? Manners nice and refined, I suppose. The girls could be proud of you for a friend? You are quiet, you say. Maybe you are too quiet and the girls forget about you. I have met people like that. How about asking some of the girls to your home, or one at first. When you hear a group of girls planning on going to a meeting or ball games say, "I'd like to go, too. Could I go with you, girls? Don't brood over a few failures. Take up music at home and read a good deal, and, finally, look about you and see if there are girls in the same boat. Then be friendly to them. And, Molly, dear, I am in the position of a doctor diagnosing a case and experimenting to see just what results I get with my remedies. Will you write again and let me know results, please?"

Peter's Adventure

By MRS. FLORENCE SMITH VINCENT

A SIGN OF GOOD LUCK

"White-Coat and Red-Feathers" were as curious as curious could be. They had never before in all their young lives, seen or heard anything like what they were now seeing or hearing. They felt nearer to try to find out what the to-do was all about. Suddenly the Two-Legs gave a great cry.

"A sign! A sign! The Spirit of the Nile has sent us a sign! Here are two strange birds: they have come to tell us that the waters will be under their feet. The birds understood but if ever they wished they could speak the language of the Two-Legs, it was right then. How they would like to have asked these queer people what they meant. But all they could do was to wait around and see what happened.

"As 'White-Coat and Red-Feathers' hovered above the heads of the people suddenly a shrill voice screamed:

"The birds have brought us luck! The waters are rising! The waters are rising! The Spirit of the Nile has heard and answered the prayers of the people of Egypt!"

"What strange land is this where the waters 'rise' and the people take our comfort as a sign of good luck, as if we had coming good luck?"

anything at all to do with it? asked Red-Feathers in amazement of his companion. "Never in all my life have I heard of a river that overflowed its banks. I do not believe it is possible. These people must have gone mad."

"Just because you have happened not to have heard of it does not make a thing impossible. Red-Feather," laughed White-Coat a trifle scornfully.

"I agree with you it does sound a bit queer, but there may be something in it after all. If these people have lived in this land all their lives they must know what they are doing, and as far as I can make out they have been praying to the spirit of the river for water. That must mean it has not rained in these parts for a long time.

"Just look at the heaps of sand and the dusty palm tree! How hot and dry and sad everything looks. I, for one, intend to hang around and find out what happens."

"All right if you say so, declared Red-Feathers. 'I am with you, brother, whatever you do. But think it is a waste of time. What do you suppose the Two-Legs mean by calling our sign of good luck, as if we had coming good luck?"

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

EARLY AND LATE—With my soul have I desired thee in the night; yea, with my spirit within me will I seek thee early, O God.—Isa. 26:9.

OHIO'S GREAT NEED

Business leaders of the nation are appealing to the voters of the country to lay aside personal feelings and use care in examining the experience and qualifications of the candidates for the Presidency, as stockholders or directors of a concern would use in selection of a manager.

The same care and caution should be exercised in choosing a man for Governor of Ohio. This is a strong Republican state but has been electing Democratic Governors for many years. These repeated Democratic victories in the state have been due to Republican voters yielding party principles to personal prejudice. There is no reason why Republican voters should not concentrate upon Myers Y. Cooper this year and put him over with a big vote. He is a man of moral character and business capacity, measuring up in practical business experience to the responsibilities of the office.

Ohio is a big business concern and the proper conduct of its affair require a business man. Mr. Cooper has managed his own private affairs so successfully that he is known as one of the outstanding business men of the state. He would apply the same business methods to state affairs, surround himself with able, competent and efficient help and build up an organization that would inure to the benefit of all the people. Ohio Republicans have been generous for years in their support of Democratic candidates for Governor. This year there is every reason why they should vote the Republican party ticket from President down. If Democrats consult their own best interests they will vote the Republican ticket, which would be a manifestation of a spirit of appreciation in a reciprocal way.

In comparing the two men, Myers Y. Cooper, Republican candidate for Governor, and Martin L. Davey, his Democratic opponent, careful consideration should be given Mr. Davey's record in Congress. It shows he missed 527 roll calls and answered but 508, indicating that he was absent and not voting more than half the time he has represented the Fourteenth Congressional District at Washington. What would he do as Governor of Ohio? Past performance is the chief method by which men are judged.

SCIENCE PAYS MILLIONS

Science gives us here in America an increased income of $30,000,000,000 a year, according to an authority writing in Chemical Markets. This writer says it has doubled the productivity of agriculture, and more than quadrupled that of mining. It has created the entire automobile industry in about 30 years.

When funds are asked to promote scientific research, many people may say they are wasted, and yet the scientists are constantly discovering things out of which the people reap profits mounting up into billions. The American people and their government should spend money generously for such investigations.

The American people are urged to hail the dawn of a new day, and they frequently do so when they go to the dances.

The people, who have the most need to worry about their money affair, often let their creditors do the worrying.

Commander Kenworthy, as a scion of the English nobility, might have been expected to be a Conservative, but after the last war, through which he skipped one of King George's destroyers, he turned pretty radical and the Labor party sent him to parliament.

He writes considerably, as a naval expert, too. His latest book is called "The Freedom of the Seas."

This was the subject he discussed in a recent speech at Birmingham, when and where he referred to the danger of an Anglo-American clash unless Brit-anna modifies her claim to absolute and exclusive "ruiship of the waves."

Kenworthy recalls that British interference with American shipping made President Wilson exceedingly sore in the early days of the last war.

He surmises that it might have developed into a red-hot controversy if the Washington chief executive had not presently had his attention distracted from the English navy's blockade methods by the still more violent ones of Germany's U-boats.

Nevertheless, the commander doubts if Americans are any readier today than ever they were to recognize the British title to out-and-out ownership of the oceans—a proposition on which the London admiralty stands as pat at present as it did in 1812.

If this deadlock remains unbroken, Commander Kenworthy says plainly that an Anglo-American war in 1928 can just as reasonably be forecast now as it was possible to forecast the World war in 1914.

In fact, a few pessimists did but generally it was considered forecast the World war in 1914, "unthinkable."

And so it was, agree Commander Kenworthy—precisely as an Anglo-American war is "unthinkable" in 1928.

It is but right to say that, on both sides of the water, Commander Kenworthy is quite widely regarded as an ultra-alarmist.

All the same, his book, "The Freedom of the Seas," is a best-seller in Washington army and navy circles—especially navy circles, the author himself being a navy man.

Also his Birmingham speech is much commented on.

We shall hear a lot about them both when congress meets and the big and little navy debate begins.

How to Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

GOOD GROOMING OF HANDS AND FEET

When I talk of the urgent need for regular care of your hands, I am speaking of a very reasonable thing. This is the time of the year when the beauty of white, well kept hands is all too frequently sacrificed to the uncertain weather. Remember that the chief enemies of the beauty of your hands are too much water and exposure. Insufficient care, a cheerful concern of these all important beauty aids such as bleaching lotions, nourishing creams and softening balms, will result in roughened and reddened skin and hands, aged long before their time. Going without gloves will result in tanned and freckled skin.

The housewife has another enemy, and this, I think, causes more trouble than all the others say one or two inches apart, and in the slashes put thin slices of salt pork. Place a poultry dressing in one end of the pan, one-half hour before the roast is done.

cleansing and soothing the hands is ordinary commeal. To prepare it for using, put a cupful in a glass jar. Mix in half a cup of finely shaved complexion soap with this preparation and warm water. Rinse thoroughly and dry, and rub in a little hand cream. At night, massage the hands for five minutes with either a good balm or a hand cream.

Remember that not one week should pass without your either having or giving yourself a complete manure. Foot grooming is also a very important and much neglected part of beauty cultivation. The Posture League recognizes three types of feet. The inflamed, when more of the foot surface lies inside of the line than outside; the outflared, when more of the foot surface lies outside of the line; the straight, where the ball of the foot lies equally outside of a given line. The best way to determine the type of foot you have is by tracing its outline on a piece of paper, then draw a line lengthwise through the cen-

This is a Saturday night supper, or dinner, of course. There are innumerable ways of cooking baked beans. My own favorite is with tomato, and I omit the onion. This amount will serve four people.

Today's Recipes.

Boston Baked Beans—Soak a pint of navy beans over night. In the morning, place an onion in the bottom of the bean pot and cover with the beans. Pour half a pound of salt pork in the beans until only the top shows. Mix two tablespoonsful of molasses, one teaspoonful of salt, half a teaspoonful of pepper and half a teaspoonful of mustard with hot water, and add enough hot water to cover. Cook in a very slow oven all day until ready to serve in the evening. Keep plenty of water on the beans and cover the bean pot so the seasoning and the long, slow baking that does the trick.

Boston Brown Bread—One cup flour, one cup graham, one cup white flour, two cups Indian meal (corn meal), one teaspoon soda, one teaspoon salt, one-half cup molasses, one and one-half cups milk. Steam three hours.

ter, and another at right angles across the widest part of your foot. The diagram thus made will tell what type your foot is. When you buy a pair of shoes, remember to notice the shape of the sole. Do not choose a straight shoe or an out-flared shoe if you have not this type of foot.

The rounded toes and cut out effects which are the present vogue in shoes combine beauty with hygiene. As a rule, they allow room for the toes, fit the arch well, and due to their sandal type, provide the foot with the necessary ventilation. See to your shoes for comfort. If you have a large, rather stout foot, keep away from the dainty looking, fragile slippers which make a large one ridiculous looking. Don't go in for extremes. A narrow strap is only becoming to a slender foot and a pretty ankle. Should you not have these, the more common sense wide strap and side buckle is the best style for you to choose.

While oxfords are not as a rule flattering, they have the advantage of both looking and feeling sensible. If you select becoming stockings and are always careful to see that your oxfords are well shined, neatly laced, with fresh looking strings in them, you can get away with them very nicely.

Dark stockings are much more slenderizing than light ones. However, do not make the mistake of selecting all black ones, for they are at present unusual enough to attract attention. Any of the off-black shades such as gunmetal, dust and turt will be becoming and flattering. Avoid the pinker shades for daytime wear. Only last week I received warning from Paris that the nude stockings will not be in vogue this year.

WHILE LEARNING TO FOCUS EYES OF BABY MAY CROSS

Answers to Mothers

God could not be everywhere; therefore He made mothers.—Jewish Proverb.

Cross Eyes

"Will you please tell me whether I have any cause for worry? The left eye of my baby girl, four months old, does not seem to be exactly centered. She has a habit of looking at her hands and feet very closely, which makes her eyes cross. Of course, when I see her do this, I stop it. She also turns her head to stare at the bedroom door, which is on her left. We have no weak eyes in the family. Please tell me whether this is serious, and whether it will have to be corrected or whether it will adjust itself. MRS. J."

I don't think you have any cause for worry, Mrs. J. All babies, while they are learning to focus their eyes, cause consternation to young mothers for fear they are going to develop into Ben Turnpikes. Your baby looks towards the door because she has learned to expect someone to come through it, or perhaps because it is lighter there babies turn instinctively towards light, just as do plants. However, if her eyes do not adjust themselves soon, see a baby specialist.

This turning or squinting of babies' eyes has been noted for ages. In the old medical records it was written about in the following manner:

Of Goggle Eyes

"...to laye the child so in his cradelle, that he maye beholde direct agaynste the light & not to turn his eyes on either of both sides. If yet he begin to goggle, then set the cradell after suche a fourme, that the light maye be on the contrary side, so that for desyre of light he may dyrect them to the same part. ... & remove his eyes from ye evil custome." This is still good advice.

Milk Leg (Phlegmasia Alba Dolans or Phlebitis) Phlegmasia alba dolans (from the Greek words meaning white, painful inflammation), commonly called milk or white leg, is an inflammation of the large veins of the leg which sometimes follows childbirth and deep abdominal operations. The leg becomes swollen and whitish. On account of the whiteness, they used to be a superstition that the "driving in" of the milk; hence the name milk leg. This is not true.

Inflammation of the veins may cause a long clot (thrombus) and if the proper care is not given, a bit of this may break off and form what is known as an embolus, which is carried by the circulation and may lodge in a vital organ, causing serious consequences, even death. For this reason, the patient has to remain very quietly in bed for weeks or months, with the leg elevated a little, and fixed up to prevent the clothes from resting on the foot. A hose barrel hoop may be used. The leg is usually bandaged and kept warm, but no massage or rough handling for fear of the possibility of loosening bits of the clot, if one should form. If a clot has formed, sooner or later it will either be dissolved or fibrous tissue will grow through it and it will become a cord of solid tissue; then it is not dangerous.

Sometimes the leg will remain swollen for years, or may swell only when the patient is long on her feet. Milk leg is not very common, not nearly so common as it used to be before the modern methods of care in childbirth and operations.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

Some Cannot Make Friends.

What Can They Do About It? A letter from a high school girl has set me thinking of a problem and I would like my readers to help. Why is it so hard for some people to make friends? Why are they constantly slighted when others, often more shallow and less worth knowing, have plenty of friends? We all have such people in our acquaintance, it is a pity—but people that it is an effort to remember. What can such a person do to make themselves popular? I am afraid generalities will not be much help. The remedy would have to be specific in individual cases. Following is the little girl's letter:

"Dear Mrs. Lee You are getting hundreds of people out of their troubles, so I write to you to help me. My trouble is this: I am in the third year of high school and make friends easily while in school, but after school everybody seems to attend to their own business and I don't know what to do with myself. What do other girls do? Isn't it funny, I am in a class full of girls, but I don't know how to get a chum. Another trouble is, that at one time most of the girls seem to be friendly and for what other are mad at me, for what I don't know. I don't quarrel. I am the quiet kind, but try to speak and be friendly to those girls. Still another thing that troubles me is why the few girls I do go out with once in a while never invite me to their parties. They invite the rest of the girls. How can I get in the gang? I sometimes get almost frantic seeing other groups of girls going together to football games, pep meetings, etc., while I have to sit at home miserable because I haven't got anyone with whom to go. Nobody ever asks me to go with them and I don't know how to ask them.

"MOLLY." To tell you just what is wrong I would have to know you, dear. It is very likely—and I don't say this merely to comfort you but because it is true—that it is a passing phase of adolescent life. Many young people pass through it, in fact, almost all. Suppose you take inventory. Look yourself over carefully physically. Do you keep yourself as neat and attractive as possible? It is very easy to slump at your age. Are your stockings always fastened up neatly with the seams straight up the back? Hair, nails, etc., all right? Manners nice and refined, I suppose. The girls could be proud of you for a friend! You are quiet, you say. Maybe you are too quiet and the girls forget about you. I have met people like that. How about asking some of the girls to your home, or one at first. When you hear a group of girls planning on going to a meeting or ball games say, "I'd like to go, too. Could I go with you, girls? Don't brood over a few failures. Take up music at home and read a good deal, and, finally, look about you and see if there are girls the same boat. Then be friendly to them. And, Molly, dear, I am in the position of a doctor diagnosing a case and expecting testimony to see just what results I get with my remedies. Will you write again and let me know results, please?"

Peter's Adventure

A SIGN OF GOOD LUCK

"White-Coat and Red-Feathers were as curious as curious could be. They had never before in all their young lives, seen or heard anything like what they were now seeing or hearing. They flew nearer to try to find out what the to-do was all about. Suddenly the Two-Legs gave a great cry.

"A sign! A sign! The Spirit of the Nile has sent us a sign! Here are two strange birds; they have come to tell us that the waters will rise!"

"Both the birds understood, but if ever they wished they could speak the language of the Two-Legs, it was right then. How they would like to have asked these queer people what they meant! But all they could do was to wait around and see what happened."

"As White-Coat and Red-Feathers hovered above the heads of the people suddenly a shrill voice screamed: 'The birds have brought us luck! The waters are rising! The Spirit of the Nile has heard and answered the prayers of the people of Egypt!'

"What strange land is this, where the waters 'rise' and the people take our coming as a sign of good luck, as if we had come good luck?"

"anything at all to do with it?" asked Red-Feathers in amazement of his companion. "Never in all my life have I heard of a river that overflowed its banks. I do not believe it is possible. These people must have gone mad."

"Just because you have happened not to have heard of it does not make a thing impossible. Red-Feather," laughed White-Coat a trifle scornfully.

"I agree with you it does sound a bit queer, but there may be something in it after all. If these people have lived in this land all their lives they must know what they are doing, and as far as I can make out they have been praying to the spirit of the river for water. That must mean it has not rained in these parts for a long time."

"Just look at the heaps of sand and the dusty palm trees! How hot and dry and everything looks! I, for one, intend to hang around and find out what happens."

"All right if you say so, declared Red-Feathers. 'I am with you, brother, whatever you do. But I think it is a waste of time. What do you suppose the Two-Legs mean by calling our sign of good luck, as if we had come good luck?'

Xenia Fish Hatchery Among Finest In All Ohio

INSTITUTION HERE IS SECOND LARGEST OF NEW HATCHERIES

Elaborate System Used In Interests Of Sportsmen

The Xenia Fish Hatchery, consisting of six pools, for which dedicatory ceremonies were held Monday afternoon, is one of the largest in the state in respect to the number of pools.

The land included in the hatchery property was purchased last April 22 at a cost of $5,000. Construction began the same day and the total cost of the hatchery, including the land, was $14,167.

The Xenia hatchery is the most recently completed hatchery in the rather extensive system of hatcheries being provided by the state in the interests of Ohio anglers. The department of agriculture, maintained by sportsmen's license fees, seeks to serve the sportsmen of Ohio by an extensive program of conservation and propagation of Ohio wild life.

Counting the Xenia hatchery, the state now has sixteen hatcheries. Among those of recent construction may be mentioned the five-pool hatchery at Defiance established in 1923; the Buckeye Lake hatchery constructed in 1927; with five additional pools being constructed in 1928. Within the last year the Bucyrus hatchery with eight pools and the five-pool hatchery at Coshocton have been completed. The hatchery of Franklin County is under construction at the present time and the contract is expected to be let before the end of the present administration. Of the other hatcheries, the Put-in-Bay is perhaps the best known to the people of Ohio on account of the great number of excursions and vacation sojourners to the island in Lake Erie. At this place the most modern equipment permits the artificial propagation of white fish, pike, perch, saugers, yellow perch and herring.

Among the older hatcheries is the Chagrin Falls in Cuyahoga County, where in 1893 three pools were installed. Sixteen acres of land in this preserve permitted the doubling of the number of pools in 1915.

The London hatchery, first established in 1864, has been enlarged to nineteen pools. It is three and one-half miles west of London, Madison County, adjoining the state prison farm and consists of twenty-six and one-half acres.

On a twenty-five acre island in New Lake, Summit County, south of Akron, is the Akron hatchery with eleven pools, all of which are in operation. This hatchery was built in 1910. The same year saw the construction of the St. Marys hatchery, St. Marys, near the lake there. It consists of nine pools on a sixteen-acre tract.

Four other important fish hatcheries owned and operated by the department of agriculture are the "twenty-four" and eleven-pool at Newton in Hamilton County; the Zoar hatchery in the bed of the abandoned Ohio canal with six pools; the Defiance hatchery consisting of twenty-seven acres and five pools; and the Waverly hatchery in Pike County consisting of sixteen acres, the five acres of water there being divided into five pools.

Fish distribution throughout the country is not a promiscuous, hit-or-miss affair. Each county has a distribution committee through which the department of agriculture operates to place the fish in the county. This committee is composed of the following members:

one active member of each fish and game association in the county; one member of the county grange; one member of the county farm bureau, and the game protector of that county, who serves as chairman of the committee.

Whenever the distribution of fish and game is made in a county, the distribution committee is notified. They then decide upon the locations in their own county where they believe the proposed distribution should take place.

Does his mother realize? Considerate mothers will act at once.

Constitution will blunt the keenest intellect, and many a child is called "dull" through bowels falling to act regularly. They bowels mother's watchful care.

If your child is listless, dull and out-of-sorts, it means that the stomach, liver and bowels are clogged. Just give a dose of "California Fig Syrup" and soon all the sour bile and irritating poison are moved from the bowels, and the child is bright and energetic again. "California Fig Syrup" cleans and regulates the bowels, and insures pure blood, clear complexion, joyous spirits, a keen brain, healthy appetite and promotes sturdy growth.

To be sure that the Fig Syrup you buy is the genuine, look for the name "California" on the pack age.

BOWERSVILLE TEAM ENDS SEASON WITH ONLY FAIR RECORD

Bowersville Bayliffs baseball team recently ended its sixth season with a record of nine victories and ten defeats to show for nineteen games played, a percentage of .474.

The Bayliffs opened and closed their season successfully, winning their first and last games, but sagged somewhat in the middle of the schedule.

Of the original members of the club when it was organized in 1923, there are now only three players remaining on the roster. D. Murrell, N. Murrell and Bowermeister.

The team had a batting average of .297 for the season. Bert Bowermeister topped the individual batting averages with a mark of .340, participating in seventeen games.

One peculiar fact was that the Bayliffs never used a pitcher with more or less than five letters in his last name. No pitcher won more than five games. The hurlers were Lucas, Smith, Evans, Kiser and Wells. Lucas won five games and lost seven, Smith won one game and lost three, and Evans, Kiser and Wells each won a game without a defeat.

The club held its annual business meeting Sunday, October 21, after routine matters had been transacted, the members chatted over games won and lost during the season. There was only one extra inning game played and it was won by Bowersville in the eleventh frame, 5 to 4. Batting averages for 1928 follow:

PUNTS AND PASSES

Xenia Central High's athletic teams are going to have a nickname appropriate to their fighting spirit.

Someone this week is going to suggest the title that will be appended to the athletic teams of the blue and white and the fan who suggests the best name is going to attend the rest of the football games this season and all the home basketball games free of charge.

All you have to do is submit to the sporting department of The Gazette, the nickname you consider most appropriate. Two or three years ago Ohio Wesleyan adopted the name "Battling Bishops." Dayton Stivers High has its Tigers. Roosevelt High its Teddies. Cedarville College its Yellow Jackets. Wilmington its Green Tornado.

Practically every school has a colorful and picturesque name for its favorites, as witness the U. of D. Flyers, the St. Xavier Musketeers, the Purdue Boilermakers.

JACK FIXES PRICE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23.—Jack Dempsey's price for his next fight, if any, is half a million dollars, the former heavyweight champion said in a letter received today by Saul Cohen, Los Angeles jeweler.

"Tex Rickard has been talking to be about fighting next spring," said Jack.

"I may take a fight if he will give me $500,000 but at that I am not crazy about getting back into the ring again. Rickard is apparently greatly worried about conditions. The fight game is very quiet around New York."

GRID CAPTAINS

Rube E. Wagner is captain of this year's University of Wisconsin football team. His work at tackle has been a big factor in the team's wall defense of the Badgers this fall.

He is a senior and is playing his last season of Big Ten football.

Ritticisms

BY BILL RITT

The next time some of these schools play this Davis-Elkins outfit, they'll probably hope it will be two other fellows.

The trouble with some of these small schools is that they can't be seen until after they've secured the winning touchdown.

Centre college started the ball rolling. It came from nowhere in Kentucky and landed all over the place.

Centre met Harvard and before the afternoon was over the Crimson's reputation was past history.

Since that day tank teams have toured the country pulling chairs from under big time coaches.

Every October most varsity coaches start turning grey with worry. The rest are already bald-headed.

ONE for the BOOK

This is really two for the book. First off, E. C. Robertson of the famed Purdue football machine of 1900, will go down in gridiron history as giving the greatest individual exhibition of goal kicking in a college game the pigskin sport ever saw.

On Oct. 27, against Rose Poly, Robertson kicked seven goals from placement!

The distances were 25, 35, 25, 20, 20, 30, 30 yards respectively. In the running and passing game now prevalent, and which has replaced the old kicking methods, this record will never be surpassed.

But Robertson's marvelous record pales to mediocrity beside that of a mere kid, Alfred Griggs, who played on the Exeter, Cal., high school team in 1915.

On November 6 of that year Exeter met Hanford high and young Griggs was called upon to kick fifteen goals from placement. And he scored in every instance.

The distance varied from twenty to forty yards.

Personalities IN SPORT

Rube Lutzke

Rube Lutzke is one lad who brought big league baseball to the minors by the simple process of playing big time stuff in a bush uniform.

Rube didn't look so good to Cleveland, so the Indians dropped him to Newark in the International. Last season, with the Bears, he fielded like a past master, and hit well over .300.

Now the Cincinnati Reds have grabbed him, and it's a good bet that the guardian of third base in Redland field next summer will be a chap named Lutzke.

Xenia Fish Hatchery Among Finest In All Ohio

INSTITUTION HERE IS SECOND LARGEST OF NEW HATCHERIES

Elaborate System Used In Interests Of Sportsmen

The Xenia Fish Hatchery, on the Springfield Pike, consisting of six pools, for which dedicatory ceremonies were held Monday afternoon, is one of the largest in the state in respect to the number of pools.

The land included in the hatchery property was purchased last April 22 at a cost of $5,000. Construction began the same day and the total cost of the hatchery, including the land, was $14,167.

The Xenia hatchery is the most recently completed hatchery in the rather extensive system of hatcheries being provided by the state in the interests of Ohio anglers. The department of agriculture, maintained by sportsmen's license fees, seeks to serve the sportsmen of Ohio by an extensive program of conservation and propagation of Ohio wild life.

Counting the Xenia hatchery, the state now has sixteen hatcheries. Among those of recent construction may be mentioned the five-pool hatchery at Defiance established in 1923, the Buckeye Lake hatchery constructed in 1927, with five additional pools being constructed in 1928. Within the last year the Bucyrus hatchery with eight pools and the five-pool hatchery at Coshocton have been completed. The hatchery of Franklin County is under construction at the present time and the contract is expected to be let before the end of the present administration.

Of the older hatcheries, the Put-in-Bay is perhaps the best known to the people of Ohio on account of the great number of excursions and vacation sojourners to the island in Lake Erie. At this place the most modern equipment permits the artificial propagation of white fish, pike, perch, saugers, yellow perch and herring.

Among the older hatcheries is the Chagrin Falls in Cuyahoga County, where in 1893 three pools were installed. Sixteen acres of land in this preserve permitted the doubling of the number of pools in 1915.

The London hatchery, first established in 1894, has been enlarged to nineteen pools. It is three and one-half miles west of London, Madison County, adjoining the state prison farm and consists of twenty-six and one-half acres.

On a twenty-five acre island in New Lake, Summit County, south of Akron, is the Akron hatchery with eleven pools, all of which are in operation. This hatchery was built in 1910. The same year saw the construction of the St. Marys hatchery, St. Marys, near the lake there. It consists of nine pools on a sixteen-acre tract.

Four other important fish hatcheries owned and operated by the department of agriculture, are the twenty-four-acre, eleven-pool at Newton in Hamilton County; the Zoar hatchery in the bed of the abandoned Ohio canal with six pools; the Defiance hatchery consisting of twenty-seven acres and five pools; and the Waverly hatchery in Pike County consisting of sixteen acres, the five acres of water there being divided into five pools.

Fish distribution throughout the counties is not a promiscuous, haphazard affair. Each county has a distribution committee through which the department of agriculture operates to place the fish in the county. This committee is composed of the following members: one active member of each fish and game association in the county; one member of the county gamekeepers' association; one member of the county farm bureau; and the game protector of that county, who serves as chairman of the committee.

Whenever the distribution of fish and game is made in a county, the distribution committee is notified. They then decide upon the locations in their own county where they believe the proposed distribution should take place.

Does his mother realize?
Considerate mothers will act at once.

Constipation will blunt the keenest intellect, and many a child is classed as "dull" through bowels failing to act regularly. They need mother's watchful care. If your child is listless, dull and out-of-sorts, it means that the stomach, liver and bowels are clogged with constipated waste. Just give a dose of "California Fig Syrup" and soon all the sour bile and irritating poison are moved from the bowels, and the child is bright and energetic again. "California Fig Syrup" cleans and regulates the bowels, and insures pure blood, clear complexion, joyous spirits, a keen brain, healthy appetite and promotes sturdy growth. To be sure that the Fig Syrup you buy is the genuine, look for the name "California" on the pink age.

BOWERSVILLE TEAM ENDS SEASON WITH ONLY FAIR RECORD

Bowersville Bayliffs baseball team recently ended its sixth season with a record of nine victories and ten defeats to show for nineteen games played, a percentage of 47.4.

The Bayliffs opened and closed their season successfully, winning their first and last games, but sagged somewhat in the middle of the schedule.

Of the original members of the club when it was organized in 1923, there are now only three players remaining on the roster, D. Murrell, N. Murrell and Bowermeister. The team had a batting average of .297 for the season. Bert Bowermeister topped the individual batting averages with a mark of .340, participating in seventeen games.

One peculiar fact was that the Bayliffs never used a pitcher with more or less than five letters in his last name. No pitcher won more than five games. The hurlers were Lucas, Smith, Evans, Kiser and Wells. Lucas won five games and lost seven, Smith won one game and lost three, and Evans, Kiser and Wells each won a game with-out a defeat.

The club held its annual business meeting Sunday, October 21 and after routine matters had been transacted, the members chatted over games won and lost during the season. There was only one extra inning game played and it was won by Bowersville in the eleventh frame, 5 to 4. Batting averages for 1928 follow:

PUNTS AND PASSES

Xenia Central High's athletic teams are going to have a nickname appropriate to their fighting spirit.

Someone this week is going to suggest the title that will be appended to the athletic teams of the blue and white and the fan who suggests the best name is going to attend the rest of the football games this season and all the home basketball games free of charge.

All you have to do is submit to the sporting department of The Gazette, the nickname you consider most appropriate. Two or three years ago Ohio Wesleyan adopted the name "Battling Bishops." Dayton State High has its Tigers, Roosevelt High its Teddies, Cedarville College its Yellow Jackets, Wilmington its Green Tornado.

Practically every school has a colorful and picturesque name for its favorites, as witness the U. of D. Flyers, the St. Xavier Musketeers, the Purdue Boilermakers,

GRID CAPTAINS

Rube E. Wagner is captain of this year's University of Wisconsin football team. His work at tackle has been a big factor in the stone wall defense of the Badgers this fall.

He is a senior and is playing his last season of Big Ten football.

Ritticisms

BY BILL RITT

The next time some of these schools play this Davis-Elkins outfit, they'll probably hope it will be two other fellows.

The trouble with some of these small schools is that they can't be seen until after they've secured the winning touchdown.

Centre college started the ball rolling. It came from nowhere in Kentucky and landed all over the place.

Centre met Harvard and before the afternoon was over the Crimson's reputation was past history.

Since that day tank teams have toured the country pulling chairs from under big time coaches.

Every October most varsity coaches start turning grey with worry. The rest are already bald-headed.

ONE for the BOOK

This is really two for the book. First off, E. C. Robertson, of the famed Purdue football machine of 1900, will go down in gridiron history as giving the greatest individual exhibition of goal kicking in a college game the pigskin sport ever saw.
On Oct. 27, against Rose Poly, Robertson kicked seven goals from placement!
The distances were 25, 35, 25, 20, 20, 30, 30 yards respectively. In the running and passing game now prevalent, and which has replaced the old kicking methods, this record will never be surpassed.
But Robertson's marvelous record pales to mediocrity beside that of a mere kid, Alfred Griggs, who played on the Exeter, Cal., high school team in 1915.
On November 6 of that year Exeter met Hanford high and young Griggs was called upon to kick fifteen goals from placement. And he scored in every instance.
Fifteen field goals!
The distance varied from twenty to forty yards.

the Iowa Hawkeyes, the Yale Bulldogs, the Princeton Tigers, the West Virginia Mountaineers, the Notre Dame Fighting Irish, the Ohio University Bobcats.

Xenia Central should have such a nickname, but it should be different from the names familiar to sport fans. Judges who will select the name will base their selection on originality as well as on appropriateness and picturesqueness.

Suggestions should be received in this office not later than Saturday, October 27, at 5 p. m. The winner will be announced as soon as judges can make a decision, probably next Tuesday. They will reserve the right to reject all suggestions in case none of them is considered worthy of the blue and white teams.

JACK FIXES PRICE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23.—Jack Dempsey's price for his next fight, if any, is half a million dollars, the former heavyweight champion said in a letter received today by Saul Cohen, Los Angeles Jeweler.

"Tex Rickard has been talking about fighting next spring," said Jack.

"I may take a fight if he will give me $500,000 but at that I am not crazy about getting back into the ring again. Rickard is apparently greatly worried about conditions. The fight game is very quiet around New York."

JACK DUNN MOURNED BY FANS; FELL DEAD

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Jack Dunn, owner and manager of the Baltimore Orioles, was mourned today by baseball players and officials in minor and major leagues alike.

Dunn, who fell dead of apoplexy while riding a horse near Towson, Md., yesterday, was reputed to have sold more players to his leagues than any other man. His sales totalled more than $500,000, and included $2,000 for Babe Ruth, sold to Boston and much larger sums for Lefty Grove, Jack Bentley, Joe Boley and George Earnshaw, bought by the Philadelphia Athletics.

Dunn really discovered Ruth, while the latter was pitching for St. Mary's industrial school, Baltimore.

SPECIALIST WILL ADDRESS DOCTORS

In connection with the tuberculosis clinics being conducted Tuesday and Wednesday at Spring Valley and Jamestown, Dr. E. W. Pace, specialist in that disease will speak before the Greene County Medical Society at the Court House, Tuesday evening at 7:30 o'clock.
Anyone of the laity who is interested in the subject and would like to hear Dr. Pace, is cordially invited.
The clinics, of the series that are being held over the county, are being held by Dr. Pace and Dr. Warren Breidenbach, of Dayton. Physicians of the two villages and community will bring suspected or definite tubercular patients for examination.

BABY COULD NOT SLEEP

Eczema in Pimply Form On Head. Cuticura Heals.
"When my baby was small she had eczema so bad she could not sleep. It started on her head in pimply form and her head was a mass of eruptions. Her scalp was red and very sore and she would rub it. The irritation kept her awake and very fretful at night.
"I tried several remedies but they did no good. Then I tried Cuticura Soap and Ointment and I used one cake of Cuticura Soap and nearly one box of Cuticura Ointment and she was healed." (Signed) Mrs. R. G. Wood, Palmyra, Mich.
Daily use of Cuticura Soap, assisted by Cuticura Ointment, will keep the skin and scalp healthy.

Personalities IN SPORT

Rube Lutzke is one of the few players who brought big league baseball to the minors by the simple process of playing big time stuff in a bush uniform.

Rube didn't look so good to Cleveland, so the Indians dropped him to Newark in the International League. Last season, with the Bears, he fielded like a past master, and hit well over .300.

Now the Cincinnati Reds have grabbed him, and it's a good bet that the guardian of third base in Redland field next summer will be a chap named Lutzke.

Phillips does away with all that sourness and gas right after meals. It prevents the distress so apt to occur two hours after eating. What a pleasant preparation to take! And now good it is for the system! Unlike a burning dose of soda, which is but temporary relief at best—Phillips Milk of Magnesia neutralizes many times its volume in acid.

Admit Part in Ranieri Kidnaping

This telephoned picture shows Andrew Cappelano, farmer, who kept Billy Ranieri, 10, son of Chicago contractor, after his kidnaping by Italian gangsters. With him is his wife, Mrs. Cappelano, whom Billy declares befriended him during his captivity. The boy was given his freedom when police began searching "too near" the kidnapers' headquarters.

Not For Inclement Weather

What girl or matron could resist this dainty—and awfully dressy—parasol decorated with heavy silk embroidery on net? Its bizarre shape and flowering figures already have put it in forefront of the Paris novelties. The design is by Paul Caret.

Initiation Is Fatal

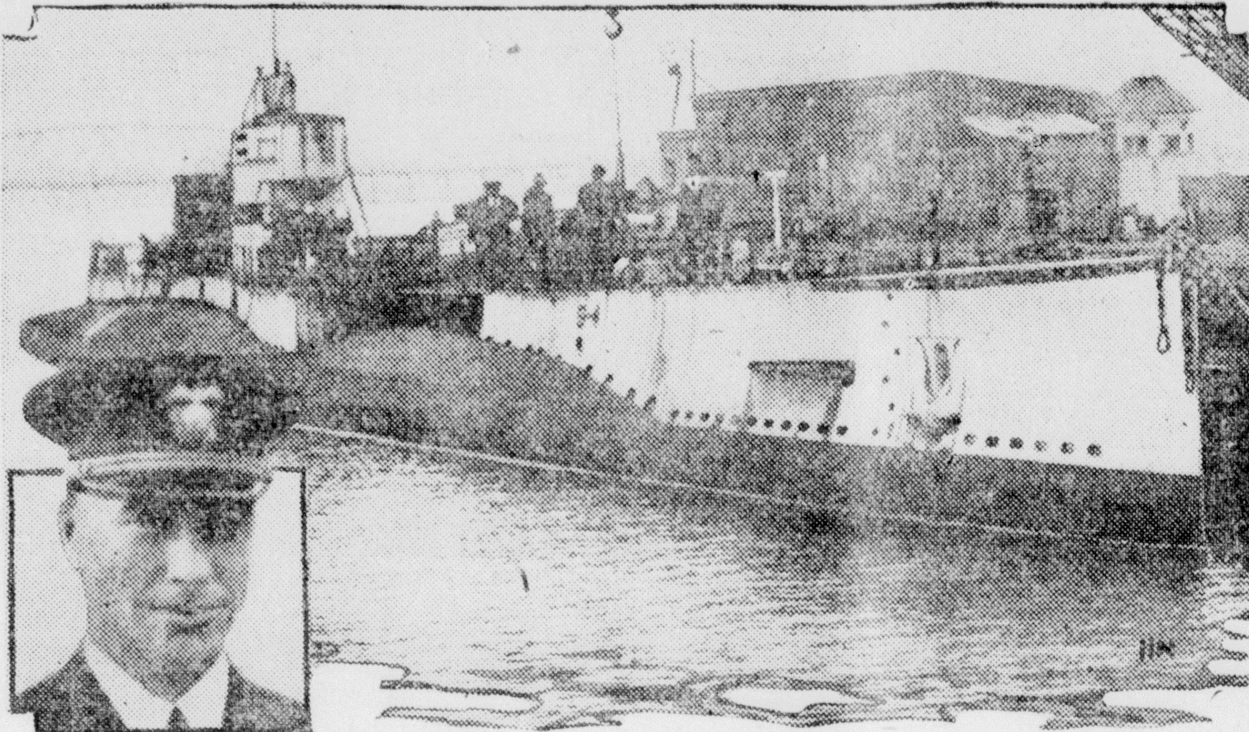

Following the death by electric shock of Nolt McElroy, 19-year-old pledge of the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity at the University of Texas, during an initiation ceremony, members of the fraternity at Austin have invited a thorough investigation of the incident by the school faculty. District Judge James R. Hamilton, above, has charged a grand jury to investigate the case, and District Attorney J. D. Moore, below, has stated that the inquiry will be in the nature of a formality.

Runs in Family

Grandmother, daughter and granddaughter of a family of Elyria, O., who make their home together, are each involved in divorce suits. Top is Mrs. Margaret Shook, 17, the granddaughter, who is being sued by her husband of six months on charges of desertion. Center is Mrs. Mary Fernandez, 38, the daughter, who seeks legal separation from her husband on grounds of cruelty. Below is Mrs. Ida Johnson, 63, the grandmother, who is suing her husband, charging desertion.

Death Ship Resumes Service

Nearly a year after her tragic mishap when she sank off Plymouth, carrying officers and crew to a lingering death, the Navy submarine S-4 has been reconducted at the Portsmouth Navy Yard, New Hampshire, and is ready for active service. The inset shows Lieutenant Norman S. Ives, the new commander of the S-4.

The Zep "Speaks" a Ship at Sea

One of the biggest thrills for Graf Zeppelin voyagers was that of "speaking" a mere surface liner in mid-ocean. This exclusive photo was taken by Robert Hartmann, MGM News and International Newsreel staff cameraman, the only photographer aboard the monster air liner.

Zeppelin's Eye

The only pictures recorded of the triumphant flight of the Graf Zeppelin from Germany to Lakehurst, N. J., were taken by Robert Hartmann, exclusively for MGM News and International Newsreel. This picture of Hartmann was taken as he alighted from the dirigible at the Naval Air Station.

Visits Old Haunts

As the guest of John D. Rockefeller, Jr., Lady Nancy Astor, above, has been visiting Williamsburg, Va., where the former is restoring the old state capital. Photo shows Lady Astor standing before the first house to be completely restored. She is a native Virginian.

Now It's the Campus Skyboat

John Held, Jr., creator of the girl accepted as typifying American flapperhood, has just painted her—"Marge"—on a college boy's airplane, marking the adoption of the skyboat to replace the storied campus flivver with the same customs applied.

HUNGER STRIKERS PICKET AGAIN

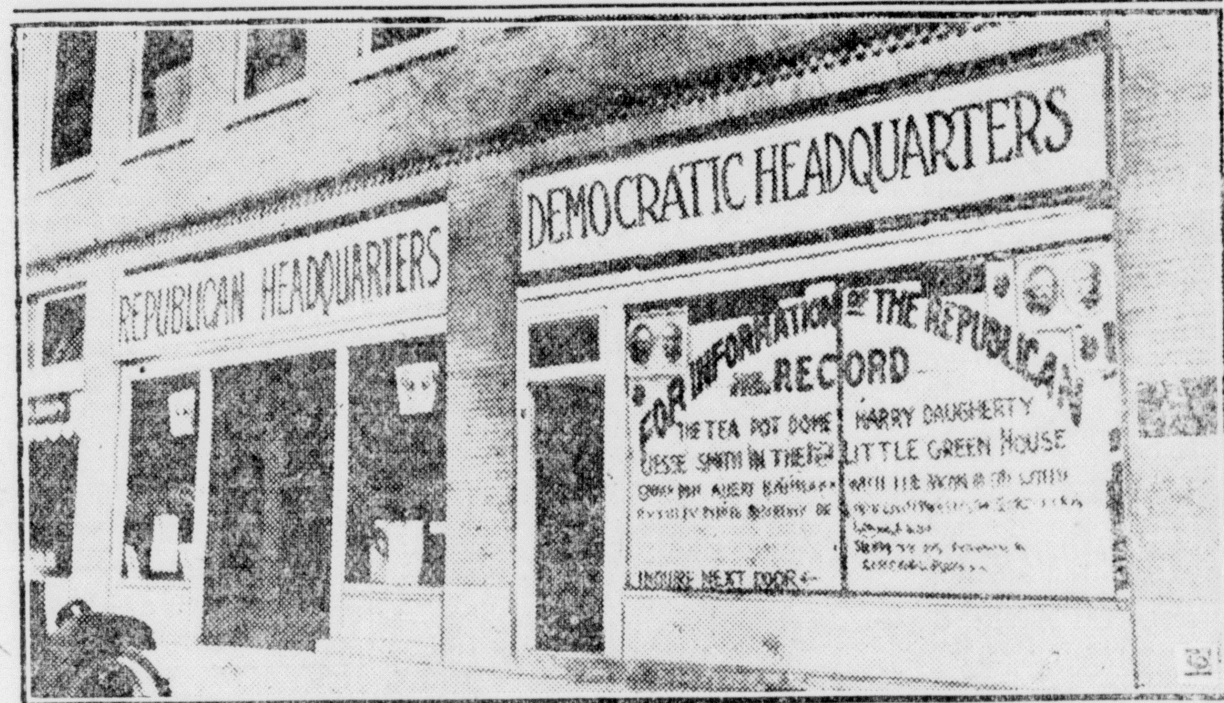

Immediately upon their release from jail at Kenosha, Wis., where they had been confined for 11 days, following their arrest during a picket demonstration at the knitting mills, where a strike has been in progress, Ammie Blum, 21, left, and Merle Hudson, 16, resumed their places as pickets. During their entire stay in the jail they refused to eat.

Hoover Gets Ovation At Hub

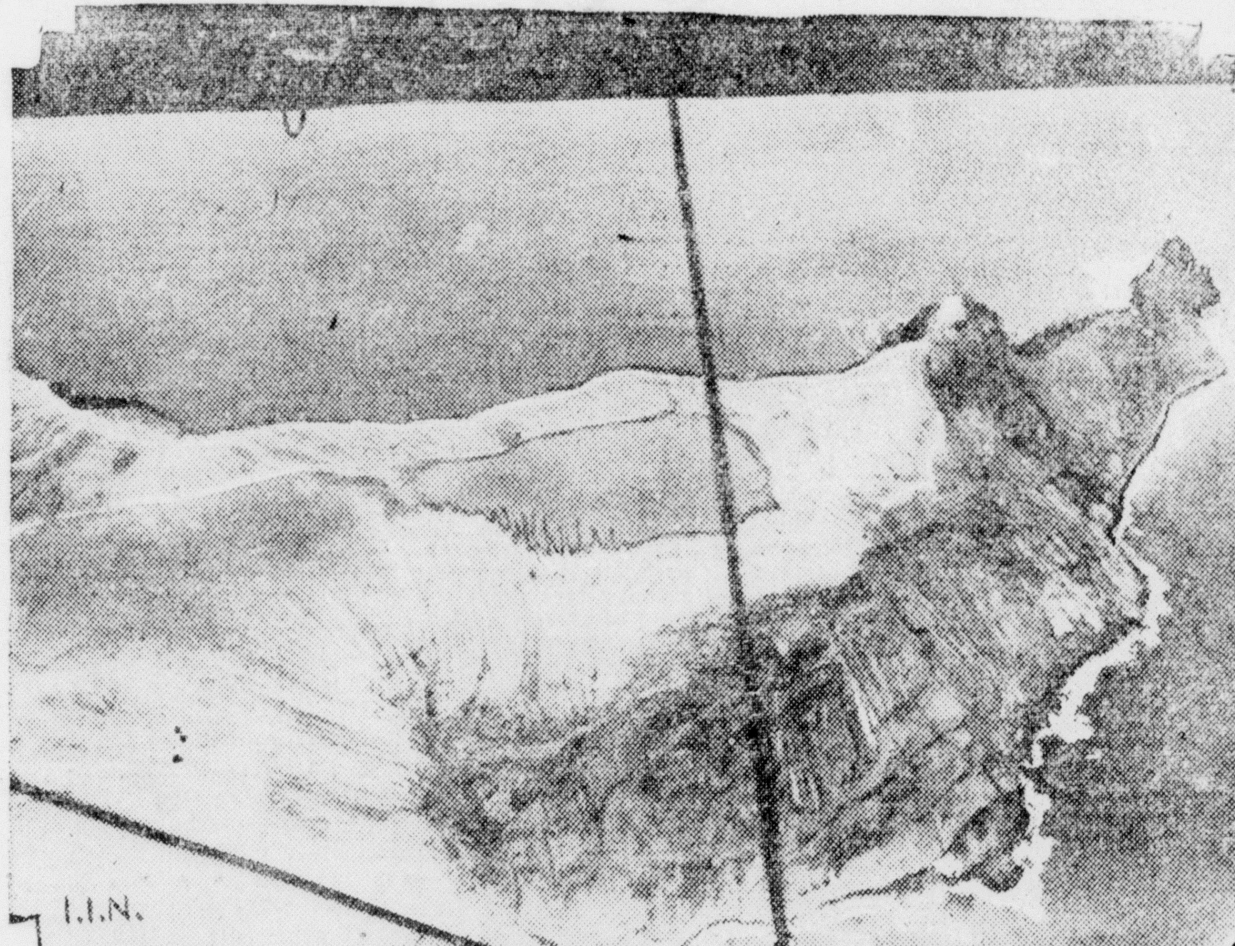

Training his campaign guns on the east, after completing his southern tour, Herbert Hoover was greeted with wild acclaim when he invaded Boston. The photograph shows him in his automobile, riding through Arlington on what resembled a triumphant tour.

CAMPAIGN POLITICS MAKES UNFRIENDLY NEIGHBORS

When Republicans of Hutchinson, Kas., installed campaign headquarters next to those of the Democrats, the latter replied in a most unneighborly manner. A purported "Republican Record" was printed, citing party misdeeds, and displayed with the advice to the populace to "inquire next door." The two headquarters are shown above.

Too Close for Real Comfort

Here is one close-up that passengers of the Graf Zeppelin cannot look at without shuddering. It is a view of grim and lonely promontory on the Madeira Islands which was snapped by Robert Hartmann, MGM News and International Newsreel cameraman, as the Graf Zeppelin passed by only a few hundred feet above the jagged rocks.

When 200 square feet of fabric was ripped from port horizontal stabilizer of Graf Zeppelin, volunteers made their precarious way to the damaged area nearly two blocks away from main cabin and sewed covering down. Above is an exclusive photo made by Robert Hartmann, MGM News and International Newsreel staff cameraman, of one of these gritty volunteers climbing into damaged fin. You can see the blue Atlantic through the hole in the stabilizer.

NO BURGLARIES HERE, THIRD IN CEDARVILLE ARE PROBED

Two attempted robberies in a truck driver for the firm was a robbery in Cedarville, about to go out on his morning route. GUARDSMAN FINED FOR MISSING DRILL

For absence from regular drills without leave, Private Estle Moore, 21, now living in Wilmington, member of Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, was fined $22 and committed to the County Jail for twenty-two days to work out the assessment, at court martial proceedings Monday night. Arrested by the Clinton County sheriff's office last Saturday night in Wilmington and returned to Xenia, Moore had already served three days in jail, hence the $3 reduction in the usual fine. He pleaded guilty.

Captain O. H. Cornwell, company commander, charged Moore has failed to attend weekly drills of the local guard unit since the equipment twelve weeks ago. Moore is the third member of the company to be fined for non-attendance at drills.

PIONEER XENIA SHOWN IN SKETCHES DRAWN BY GEORGE CRETORS, EX-XENIAN

Xenia when S. Detroit St. ended where Spring Hill starts, when W. Main St. ended where Dayton Ave. begins and when the Roberts shops and lumber yard occupied the corner of what is now the Dadds Addition at Detroit and Church Sts., is pictured in drawings from memory made by George W. Cretors, 81, Pittsburgh, Pa., former Xenian.

Mr. Cretors, here for the homecoming, told Dr. W. A. Galloway that he had made these sketches from memory but did not bring them with him. On Dr. Galloway's request, he forwarded them by mail and Dr. Galloway is now exhibiting them.

Pictures were few and far between in those days and the Cretors collection, while done by

HOOVER ALPHABET

By Mabel F. Martin

OPPORTUNITIES:

Hoover Opens Them to Everybody
Our greatest national extravagance is the human waste that results from business cycles, hard times, and unemployment. Hoover has attacked this problem systematically. He was the first to go to the root of the trouble. The unemployment conference, appointed by the President at Hoover's suggestion, studied the causes of hard times, and found ways to prevent them before they occur. Stable markets for our goods, that is what we need, and that is what Hoover's department created. Commercial scouts in the remotest corners of the earth are finding out what farm produce or manufactured goods may be needed there and sending the news to the Department of Commerce at Washington. A new railroad is to be built in the Orient. It will need rolling stock, structural steel. American manufacturers can supply them. More markets for American products, more jobs for American workmen! (To be continued)

SALES 2½ TIMES THOSE OF ANY OTHER BRAND

Do they look and walk away?

If YOU did not own your home.... and were looking around for a place to rent or buy, would you actually be attracted by your own house?

Look at your property with the eyes of your neighbors. Picture your house with one of these beautiful new roofs, the kind that adds many times its cost to the value of the house. Does the porch floor sag? Are the shutters actually disreputable?

Why shouldn't you have an arch in the living room instead of that warped, old-fashioned narrow door? The cost would be small. Let's put in polished, hard-wood floors instead of the painted boards.... everyone else has them. If you knew how easy it is to have a dormer window in that dark upstairs closet to make it into a light, airy bath room, you would have already put it in. You can increase the actual size of your house by walling your bare draughty attic. There are so many little things you can do to a house to make it a modern home. Possibly you have not considered your lumber dealer as the department store of those delightful things that turn houses into homes.

Remodeling costs much less than you think. Any one of the "Build Now with Safety" dealers in your city will gladly advise with you and give you estimates of the cost of material.

THE ONE PLACE WHERE IT PAYS TO PLAY WITH FIRE

THEY'LL build you a huge fire at a certain place in Chicago—they'll heat a door or wall red hot and turn a hose on it—they'll do all sorts of striking and ingenious things to see how long a certain device will stand up under punishment or how soon it will burn up or blow up or break.

It's a dramatic place—the great buildings of Underwriters' Laboratories—where they "play with fire" in testing building materials, electrical devices, gases, chemicals, hose, extinguishers, home utilities, and endless other things—all for the purpose of safeguarding your life, protecting your property, and reducing the cost of your insurance.

Here is the largest testing laboratory operated by any business or profession. Everywhere its exhaustive tests are accepted as authoritative and its labels of approval recognized as Symbols of Safety.

This invaluable and unique engineering service is one of the great contributions by the Stock Fire Insurance Companies to the protection of life and property in the home, in the factory, and wherever you may be in town, city or country.

Service... Not Profit...

is the underlying purpose of this work. The comprehensive equipment maintained by the Laboratories, and its corps of experienced engineers, afford unequalled facilities. These are available at actual cost.

Educators, engineers, scientists, underwriters and others journey far to study the equipment and the unusual tests that are always under way. The public is always welcome at Underwriters' Laboratories.

The long experience of the Laboratories in this work, and the methods employed for keeping in touch with manufacturers, users, and all other sources of information, have resulted in a general recognition of its standards and recommendations.

This work for the conservation of life and property is but one of the many contributions for the benefit of the American public made by Stock Fire Insurance Companies that transact more than ninety percent of the fire insurance business of this country.

TWO BURGLARIES HERE, THIRD IN CEDARVILLE ARE PROBED

Two attempted robberies in Xenia and a robbery in Cedarville, Ohio, last night, engaged the attention of police and the sheriff's office.

Breaking the lock on the front door to gain admittance, thieves entered Harper's pool room in Cedarville, the loot comprising five boxes of cigars, 100 cartons of cigarettes and a radio.

The radio set was later found on a hedge on Xenia Ave. in village. The intruders apparently escaped on foot as the radioed radio indicated it had been too heavy to carry. It was reported that the marauders passed up $6 in change in the cash drawer in the room although the drawer was empty.

O. H. Connolly, county road commissioner, investigated.

Attempts to rob The Springfield Products Co., 135 Hill St., the chicken house owned by R. F. Croker, on Washington nearby, were also reported to police.

Entering through a side window breaking the screen and raising a hole in the office door, ched in and unlocked the door the dairy firm's office. They checked the knobs of the safe but attempt to open the safe ended in failure. About a year ago a firm was robbed of a small amount of money.

The attempted theft was discovered at 2:30 a. m. Tuesday when

GUARDSMAN FINED FOR MISSING DRILL

For absence from regular drills without leave, Private Estle Moore, 21, now living in Wilmington, member of Company L, 147th Infantry, Ohio National Guard, was fined $22 and committed to the County Jail for twenty-two days to work out the assessment, at court martial proceedings Monday night.

Arrested by the Clinton County sheriff's office last Saturday night in Wilmington and returned to Xenia, Moore had already served three days in jail, hence the $3 reduction in the usual fine. He pleaded guilty.

Captain O. H. Cornwell, company commandant, charged Moore has failed to attend weekly drills of the local guard unit since the enlistment twelve weeks ago. Moore is the third member of the company to be fined for non-attendance at drills.

PIONEER XENIA SHOWN IN SKETCHES DRAWN BY GEORGE CRETORS, EX-XENIAN

Xenia when S. Detroit St. ended where Spring Hill starts, when W. Main St. ended where Dayton Ave. begins and when the Roberts shops and lumber yard occupied the corner of what is now the Dadds Addition at Detroit and Church Sts., is pictured in drawings from memory made by George W. Cretors, 81, Pittsburgh, Pa., former Xenian.

Mr. Cretors, here for the homecoming, told Dr. W. A. Galloway that he had made these sketches from memory but did not bring them with him. On Dr. Galloway's request, he forwarded them by mail and Dr. Galloway is now exhibiting them.

Pictures were few and far between in those days and the Cretors collection, while done by an amateur, gives Xenians a more complete picture of their city in its early days, than can be obtained from other sources.

There are drawings of the Reformed Church that occupied the corner of Detroit and Market Sts., where a filling station now stands and of the little school that stood on W. Market St., on the site of the present residence of Mrs. George White. Another view shows the building that stood where City Hall is now located, and gives a glimpse of the frame building next to it on Market St., which still stands.

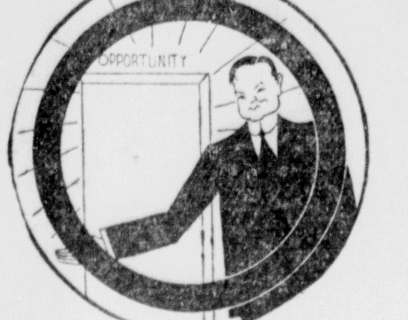

The picture of the "end of S. Detroit St." shows the "yellow spring" at that point. The spring still gushes forth pure water and may be found under the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad bridge at Washington St. and Home Ave.

In the sketch showing the end of W. Main St., the artist shows that vehicular traffic forded the stream at the junction with Dayton Ave., but there was a foot bridge for the convenience of pedestrians.

Mr. Cretors has been in the wall paper business in Pittsburgh many years. His home is at 5821 Margaretta St.

HOOVER ALPHABET

By Mabel F. Martin

Our greatest national extravagance is the human waste that results from business cycles, hard times, and unemployment. Hoover has attacked this problem systematically. He was the first to go to the root of the trouble. The unemployment conference, appointed by the President at Hoover's suggestion, studied the causes of hard times, and found ways to prevent them before they occur. Stable markets for our goods, that is what we need, and that is what Hoover's department created. Commercial scouts in the remotest corners of the earth are finding out what farm produce or manufactured goods may be needed there and sending the news to the Department of Commerce at Washington. A new railroad is to be built in the Orient. It will need rolling stock, structural steel. American manufacturers can supply them. More markets for American products, more jobs for American workmen! (To be continued)

The Sign of a Dependable Dealer

Do they look and walk away?

If you did not own your home.... and were looking around for a place to rent or buy, would you actually be attracted by your own house?

Look at your property with the eyes of your neighbors. Picture your house with one of these beautiful new roofs, the kind that adds many times its cost to the value of the house. Does the porch floor sag? Are the shutters actually disreputable?

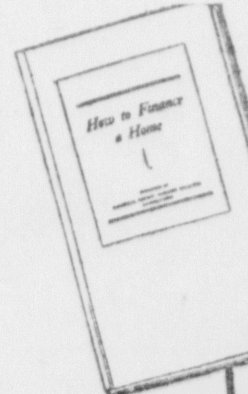

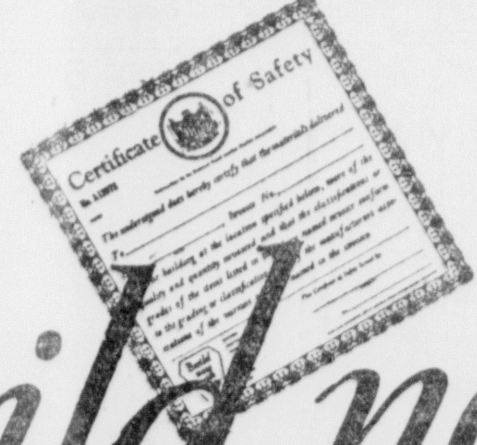

Why shouldn't you have an arch in the living room instead of that warped, old-fashioned narrow door? The cost would be small. Let's put in polished, hard-wood floors instead of the painted boards.... everyone else has them. If you knew how easy it is to have a dormer window in that dark upstairs closet to make it into a light, airy bath room, you would have already put it in. You can increase the actual size of your house by walling your bare draughty attic. There are so many little things you can do to a house to make it a modern home. Possibly you have not considered your lumber dealer as the department store of those delightful things that turn houses into homes.

Remodeling costs much less than you think. Any one of the "Build Now with Safety" dealers in your city will gladly advise with you and give you estimates of the cost of material.

operation of commercial business," he said, and argued that, even if it were efficient, which he denied, "the fundamental objection to it would remain unaltered and unabated."

It would destroy political equality, increase abuse and corruption, stifle initiative and invention, undermine the development of leadership, cramp and cripple the mental and spiritual energies of the people, extinguish equality and opportunity, and dry up the spirit of liberty and progress, he declared.

The Republican candidate declared his position, however, did not mean that the government "is to part with one lot of its natural resources without complete protection to the public interest," and pledged himself to regulation of business to correct evils, to which he said the Republican administration had committed itself.

However, in concluding, Harbison said that it is a land "where every man shall be respected in the faith that his conscience and his heart direct him to follow."

In this campaign, there is submitted to the American people a "question of fundamental principle," Hoover declared.

"That is: shall we depart from the principles of our American political and economic system, upon which we have advanced beyond the rest of the world, in order to adopt methods based on principles destructive of its very foundations?"

"I should like to state to you the effects that this projection of government in business would have upon our economic system, and among his conceptions of self government and our economic system."

"Let us first see the effect upon self-government. When the federal government undertakes to go into commercial business it must at once set up the organization and administration of that business, and it immediately finds itself in a labyrinth, every alley of which leads to the destruction of self-government," he said.

"The first problem of the government about to adventure in commercial business is to determine a method of administration. It must secure leadership and direction. Shall this leadership be chosen by political agencies or shall we make it elective?"

"Government, in order to avoid the possible incompetence, corruption and tyranny of too great authority in individuals entrusted with commercial business, inevitably turns to boards and commissions. To make sure that there are checks and balances, each member of such boards and commissions must have equal authority. Each has his separate responsibility to the public, and at once we have the conflict of ideas and the lack of decision which would ruin any commercial business. It has contributed greatly to the demoralization of our shipping business. Moreover, these commissions must be representative of different sections and different political parties, so that at once we have an entire blight upon coordinated action within their ranks which destroys any possibility of effective administration."

"Thus every time the federal government goes into commercial business, 531 senators and congressmen become the actual board of directors of that business. Every time a state government goes into business one or two hundred state senators and legislators become the actual directors of that business. Even if they were supermen and if there were no politics in the United States, nobody of such numbers could competently direct commercial activities; for that requires the action of a small group of men, not a vast assembly of men."

He placed the total crop valuation in this county in 1920 at $4,587,000 and in 1925 at $3,542,000, showing the steady decline since 1919.

The director asserted that in 1920 the value of agricultural products was $75,000,000,000 against $73,000,000,000 of other industries. "Today he said agriculture had decreased in value $50,000,000,000 and other industries had advanced to $100,000,000,000. He said this was the result of the failure of the government to give the same protection to farming that it gives to other industries and declared the loss is felt by all persons who have dealings with the farm. He urged cooperation of all citizens in bringing back fertility to the soil."

The acceptance speech in Xenia of the Greene County Fish and Game Protective Association was given by Harry E. Rice, Xenia newspaper publisher and former postmaster.

Mr. Rice proposed that the fish and game organization, the embryo Greene County Historical Society, the Daughters of the American Revolution and other patriotic units of the county immediately for an appropriation of $10,000 for the erection of a monument to Tecumseh, great Indian chief, whose birthplace was recently located on the hatchery farm by his great grandson, Thomas Wildcat Alford, of Shawnee, Okla.

Mr. Rice declared that establishment of the Xenia hatchery had been the realization of a dream and declared "our pleasure in maintaining the grounds will increase with the passing of time."

Nearly 100 people, including members of the fish and game association, their friends and sportsmen from all parts of the county attended the formal opening. Band music was furnished by the O. S. and S. O. Home Cadet Band.

Representative Williamson presided at the dedication exercises, reviewed steps taken in obtaining the location of the hatchery in Greene County and introduced the speakers. The invocation was delivered by the Rev. W. N. Shank, pastor of the First M. E. Church and the benediction by the Rev. H. B. McElreath, pastor of the Second L. P. Church.

L. F. Cleveland, one of the most active members of the fish and game association and an enthusiastic supporter of the hatchery plan, also spoke briefly. Xenia Scouts assisted in the parking of automobiles.

which he declared was the biggest function of his department. Since the old methods were discarded, twenty-three counties in the modified area list are now free from this disease and two million cattle have been tested, meaning a saving to the state of a million dollars, he said.

The value of dairy cattle and dairy products increased on an average of 25 per cent in every county that is listed in the tuberculosis free area, he announced, but declared the biggest feature of the work is the humanitarian part in the prevention of the spread of the tuberculosis germs to children by infected milk.

Director Truax also detailed the work in the fish and game department, declaring this state division has an annual turnover of half a million dollars, collected from the sale of hunting and fishing licenses. This fund supports about seventy-five game protectors, and is also used to build inland fish hatcheries and game preserves and distribute fish every year from Lake Erie into every county in the state. "We do not have to depend on our inland hatcheries but are giving you a double supply," he said.

He declared that the country today is witnessing one of the greatest crime waves in history but predicted that the present wave of crime will end in a general respect for all laws and that his work will assist in checking crime by helping get the youth of the nation outdoors.

Mr. Truax explained that the Xenia hatchery has so far cost the state $19,167. The hatchery site was purchased last April 22 for $5,000 and to date $14,167 has been spent in construction of the hatchery. "Never before has a hatchery been constructed—where there has been so much value received for the amount expended," he said.

Pointing to the two billion dollar decline in the value of farm lands in the last eight years and the corresponding decrease in industrial values, the director quoted statistics tending to show that in Greene County alone the total valuation of farm products had slumped from $7,955,000 in 1919 to $3,024,000 in 1927, a decrease of $4,931,000.

He placed the total crop valuation in this county in 1920 at $4,587,000 and in 1925 at $3,542,000, showing the steady decline since 1919.

The director asserted that in 1920 the value of agricultural products was $75,000,000,000 against $73,000,000,000 of other industries. He said this was the result of the failure of the government to give the same protection to farming that it gives to other industries and declared the loss is felt by all persons who have dealings with the farm. He urged cooperation of all citizens in bringing back fertility to the soil."

The acceptance speech in Xenia of the Greene County Fish and Game Protective Association was given by Harry E. Rice, Xenia newspaper publisher and former postmaster.

Mr. Rice proposed that the fish and game organization, the embryo Greene County Historical Society, the Daughters of the American Revolution and other patriotic units of the county immediately for an appropriation of $10,000 for the erection of a monument to Tecumseh, great Indian chief, whose birthplace was recently located on the hatchery farm by his great grandson, Thomas Wildcat Alford, of Shawnee, Okla.

Mr. Rice declared that establishment of the Xenia hatchery had been the realization of a dream and declared "our pleasure in maintaining the grounds will increase with the passing of time."

Nearly 100 people, including members of the fish and game association, their friends and sportsmen from all parts of the county attended the formal opening. Band music was furnished by the O. S. and S. O. Home Cadet Band.

Representative Williamson presided at the dedication exercises, reviewed steps taken in obtaining the location of the hatchery in Greene County and introduced the speakers. The invocation was delivered by the Rev. W. N. Shank, pastor of the First M. E. Church and the benediction by the Rev. H. B. McElreath, pastor of the Second L. P. Church.

L. F. Cleveland, one of the most active members of the fish and game association and an enthusiastic supporter of the hatchery plan, also spoke briefly. Xenia Scouts assisted in the parking of automobiles.

The Little Yellow House

By BEATRICE BURTON -- RELEASED BY CENTRAL PRESS ASSN. ©1928

READ THIS FIRST:

Over the poverty and discontent in the little yellow house broods a mother's love, which transmutes the dingy home to a palace of love and beauty. Emmy, the only daughter, is disappointed with her surroundings, envious of her wealthy relatives, eager to try her wings. She goes to work at her first job. And there a new man, Wells Harbison, enters her life, very different from quiet, hard-working Robb, who loves her, but who represents to her only a moneyless, boring future. She decides to get away from dingy Flower street and live her own life in a little apartment of her own, where she can entertain as she likes.

(Now Go On With The Story)

CHAPTER XXXI

Mrs. Milburn came up the stairs. Her eyes were red and she was patting them with her handkerchief. She looked down at the straw suitcase. Then she knelt down and began to take out some of the neatly folded stockings that Emmy had just put into it.

"My dear child, you don't need eight pairs of stockings!" she said practically. "And four princess slippers—Why, Emmy, you're going to be gone only two nights. A change of underthings and a nightie are all you need. Get that little brown bag from my clothes closet. I'll pack it for you."

Emmy scrambled to her feet and drew a deep breath. With her hands behind her back, and a thick lock of golden hair fallen over one eye, she faced her mother, looking very young and very resolute and very, very frightened, now that her moment was upon her.

"I'm not coming back!" she said breathlessly.

"What are you talking about?" asked her mother, getting to her own feet. "What nonsense is this, Emmy Milburn?"

"I'm not coming back, I say. I've taken a flat of my own," Emmy said, still breathlessly. She could feel her heart plunge in her breast. This was worse than she had expected it would be.

"A flat—your own?" Emmy finished the sentence for her mother. "I've rented it and I'm going to move in on Monday morning when I leave Grandmother's house. I'm going to lead my own life, and nobody's going to stop me! You just jangle me all up by talking to me. My mind's made up and that's all there is to it."

Mrs. Milburn did not answer her. She just stood in the middle of the little white room with her eyes growing wider and wider in her face that was like a fading pink rose. Her hands, discolored by the grime of months and months of furnace-tending, twisted in the folds of her starched white apron.

In the stillness the sound of the alarm clock ticking away the minutes was like hammer strokes. "If she'd only say something," thought Emmy, "or cry." She hadn't expected her mother to be pathetic like this. She had expected her to storm and argue—to lay down the law.

"I've got to get away, Mother. Can't you see?" she appealed to her. "I can't ask anybody here. Not even the people from the office. I can't have any friends—and I want friends. I want some fun. I've never had any—you know it, Mother! Why, just look at this place!"

It seems Louise Fazenda was making hi-jinks in "The Desert Song." Louise talks and seeks in this initial endeavor to transcribe musical comedy into colloquy. While rehearsing a scene a voice cried: "Hit her with the rifle." Louise smiled. Somebody was in for it.

Olympic records to the exit. "What's the idea?" Director Del Ruth yelled.

"Nobody's going to hit me with a rifle," she panted. Whereupon it was explained that being hit with a rifle was merely a cameraman's order to flood her with a long, thin incandescent light. Louise returned to the set, still a little dubious but trusting in the chivalry that boasts: "Children and women first!"

If the psychopathic wards are not too full, perhaps Hollywood's current fad may interest others. It can be indulged in any time, any place, with reservations at one's discretion. It has been suggested by those who do so indulge, however, that aspirins be near at hand.

The idea is to "slang" sentences out of normal words. The game is not novel to certain New York play boy and girl groups, but out here he or she adept at it is more admired than a college graduate. Or does this listen too emphatic.

The idea is to "slang" sentences out of normal words. The game is not novel to certain New York play boy and girl groups, but out here he or she adept at it is more admired than a college graduate. Or does this listen too emphatic.

A group commenced the game at the barbecue party Phyllis Haver and Ona Brown chucked 'tother eve. There were about 350 guests milling in the tent erected in the yard, so credits may be slightly askew.

"Make a sentence with the word 'sonato,'" Bebe Daniels was asked. Bebe cogitated. Then: "Just 'sonato' day wasted away."

"Here's one with 'erratic,'" Dick Arlen cared in "That girl has bats in 'erratic'."

Thereup Jack Oakie yelled from the shadowy sidelines: "Formaldehyde" places came running de Indians."

And Bert Lytell opined: "I'll 'lavallere' of corn."

On and on, far into the night jibed the quipping tongues until a weary voice was heard to mutter: "Assiduous a fool and I meant it."

LAMBS IN DEMAND

Seasonal recovery in industrial activity, combined with a decreased supply and consequently higher price for poultry and other competing meats, has brought about an improvement in the demand for lamb during the latter part of 1928, according to C. R. Arnold of the staff of the rural economics department of the Ohio State University.

Demand for lamb, during the latter part of 1928, is better than it was during the same period last year, Arnold has found.

"In view of the favorable prospects for an increased production of feed grains this year over last, and the scarcity and comparative high prices of feeding cattle, the present good demand for feeding lambs is expected to continue this rather unsatisfactory returns from lamb feeding operations in the fall," says Arnold. "Despite the corn belt during the last two winters, increased feeding over that of a year ago is expected in this area, especially in states where last year's corn crop was extremely short."

"Relatively high prices for live lambs during the first half of this year, as compared with carcass prices may be attributed to increased wool and pelt values. Wool prices in this country for the first half of 1928 averaged approximately 14 per cent higher than during the same period last year."

KONJOLA QUICKLY ENDS STOMACH ILLS AND NERVOUSNESS

Xenia Lady Sorry She Put off Seeing Konjola Man—Simply Added To Her Days of Suffering.

Konjola, the new medicine, is adding daily to its fame and friends by the new and glorious health it is bringing to men and women, young and old, who have suffered year after year, seeking in vain for something to help them.

MRS. ANNA MENDENHALL

"Those who would be well again; those who have been disappointed in their quest for health; those who believe there is no relief in sight—all those are urged to see the Konjola Man at the Gallaher Drug Store, 33 East Main Street, Xenia, and learn from him of the thousands of actual cases where-in Konjola has, indeed, proved the master medicine. Day after day those who have found long sought health through this remedy, return to tell the Konjola Man of their wonderful experiences. Among these is Mrs. Anna Mendenhall, 119 South Whiteman Street, Xenia, who said:

"How I regret putting off seeing the Konjola Man after this astounding new medicine had been so strongly recommended to me for my stomach trouble and nervousness. Every day I delayed simply added to my days of suffering. For two years I had no appetite; nothing agreed with me, and daily headaches and dizziness caused me intense suffering. Nervousness followed, and as my food did me little or no good, I became weak and totally run down. I spent a great deal of money—all I could afford—in trying this and that treatment and medicine. None did me the least bit of good.

"Finally, I saw the Konjola Man, and talked over my case with him. He made no promises, no claims, and this encouraged me; gave me faith in this new remedy. He did point out cases like mine though, in which Konjola had proved a complete success. So I started the treatment. That was six weeks ago, and today I am eating anything I like. My digestion is perfect, my nerves are calm and I sleep just fine. I am feeling fine, too, in every way, and all my friends tell me how well I look. This is a new experience for me, and all the credit goes to this wonderful Konjola. All the world should know of this super-medicine. The Konjola Man was right when he said that Konjola is a medicine of deeds, not words."

In such cases, no matter of how long standing, Konjola is supreme; the medicine without a peer. Not only does it work quickly, but the health that comes through Konjola comes to stay. Ailing organs are cleansed and stimulated; the system is cleared of its poisons; soon symptoms and pains flee, and new and lasting health take their place. Konjola is within the reach of all, for daily the Konjola Man is at the Gallaher Drug Store, 33 East Main Street, this city, where he is meeting the public and explaining the merits of this master medicine.—Adv.

SCOUTING

Interest in Scouting in Xenia has taken on new life, as evidenced in a meeting called last Thursday by the Rev. H. B. McElree, chairman of a group of men from various organizations, to form an executive council for Xenia. About twenty-five men were in attendance, with the Scoutmaster and committee-men of the three troops.

The Rev. H. B. McElree was elected chairman and Schuyler McClellan, vice chairman and they will appoint the various committees. The next meeting will be subject to call by the chairman and will be held at the Scout cabin, where an army "feed" will be served and the committee announced.

Field executive, H. Gratz was in attendance and outlined plans for a training school of Scout Executives to be held each week at Springfield. About fourteen men will go over Tuesday to enroll in this school.

Invitations were accepted to attend the district council meeting Thursday at Springfield where Mr. Leatz, Scout executive of the region, will speak.

Troop 45, B. S. A., will have an overnight hike to Camp Miami, Yellow Springs, Friday and spend the night in the new Camp Lodge. This lodge is equipped with the necessary camping supplies and each boy will be provided with a cot and mattress; and each Scout attending will provide his own bed blankets and mess kit.

The troop will be in charge of E. Blackburn, S. M., Assistant Scoutmaster P. Blackburn; Troop Committee-men H. Snyder and C. Mel-lage.

The regular meeting of the troop will be held around the camp fire at 7:30 p. m., Friday, and the parents and friends are invited to attend this meeting.

Several Scout executives of Springfield will also be in attendance.

At a meeting of Troop 45, B. S. A., Friday, the "good turn" badge of the week was again voted to Mac Cole, of the Tiger Patrol. This patrol each week is issuing a small newspaper with the troop and patrol news, which has had the hearty approval of the Scoutmaster and committee.

Troop No. 41, Boy Scouts of America, will hold a meeting Wednesday night at 7 o'clock at the Scout cabin, according to Scoutmaster R. H. Kingsbury. After this week, meetings will be held on Thursday nights until further notice.

as Carefully as You Choose Your Bank

LIKE other good business men, you select your bank carefully—choosing an institution whose strength is a matter of record, whose safety is unquestioned, and which renders real service to its depositors. Consider how equally important it is to choose carefully the companies that carry your insurance. The safety of your business—in emergency—depends upon the strength and safety of the insurance companies chosen to protect it. And service from insurance companies—when needed—is absolutely vital. Choosing thus carefully,

SCOUTING

Interest in Scouting in Xenia has taken on new life, as evidenced in a meeting called last Thursday by the Rev. H. B. McElree, chairman of a group of men from various organizations, to form an executive council for Xenia. About twenty-five men were in attendance, with the Scoutmaster and committee-men of the three troops.

The Rev. H. B. McElree was elected chairman and Schuyler McClellan, vice chairman and they will appoint the various committees. The next meeting will be subject to call by the chairman and will be held at the Scout cabin, where an army "feed" will be served and the committee announced.

Field executive, H. Gratz was in attendance and outlined plans for a training school of Scout Executives to be held each week at Springfield. About fourteen men will go over Tuesday to enroll in this school.

Invitations were accepted to attend the district council meeting Thursday at Springfield where Mr. Lentz, Scout executive of the region, will speak.

Troop 45, B. S. A., will have an overnight hike to Camp Miami, Yellow Springs, Friday and spend the night in the new Camp Lodge. This lodge is equipped with the necessary camping supplies and each boy will be provided with a cot and mattress; and each Scout attending will provide his own bed blankets and mess kit.

The troop will be in charge of E. Blackburn, S. M., Assistant Scoutmaster P. Blackburn, Troop Committee H. Snyder and C. Mel-lage.

The regular meeting of the troop will be held around the camp fire at 7:30 p. m., Friday, and the parents and friends are invited to attend this meeting.

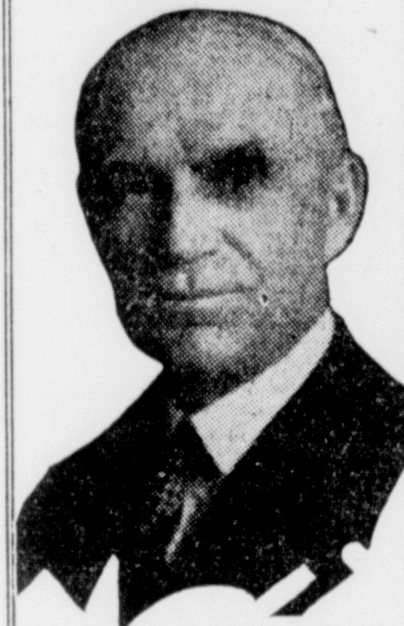

Several Scout executives of Springfield will also be in attendance.

At a meeting of Troop 45, B. S. A., Friday, the "good turn" badge of the week was again voted to Mac Cole, of the Tiger Patrol. This patrol each week is issuing a small newspaper with the troop and patrol news, which has had the hearty approval of the Scoutmaster and committee.

Troop No. 41, Boy Scouts of America, will hold a meeting Wednesday night at 7 o'clock at the Scout cabin, according to Scoutmaster R. H. Kingsbury. After this week, meetings will be held on Thursday nights until further notice.

Choose Your Insurance Company

as Carefully as You Choose Your Bank

LIKE other good business men, you select your bank carefully—choosing an institution whose strength is a matter of record, whose safety is unquestioned, and which renders real service to its depositors. Consider how equally important it is to choose carefully the companies that carry your insurance. The safety of your business—in emergency—depends upon the strength and safety of the insurance companies chosen to protect it. And service from insurance companies—when needed—is absolutely vital. Choosing thus carefully,

Judge Your Insurance by These Fundamentals of Insurance Value—

- 1 QUALITY—Adequate protection, helpful service before loss, and prompt settlement of claims.
- 2 COST—Minimum cost at which you can buy the quality of protection you demand.
- 3 STABILITY—Assurance that the Company issuing your policy is thoroughly established and absolutely sound.

Founded in 1876, The CENTRAL has a record of over fifty years of service, with prompt and satisfactory settlement of claims. Through its dividends, it reduces to a minimum the cost of quality insurance. The soundness of the Company and its policies is unquestioned.
